

This is a digital copy of a book that was preserved for generations on library shelves before it was carefully scanned by Google as part of a project to make the world's books discoverable online.

It has survived long enough for the copyright to expire and the book to enter the public domain. A public domain book is one that was never subject to copyright or whose legal copyright term has expired. Whether a book is in the public domain may vary country to country. Public domain books are our gateways to the past, representing a wealth of history, culture and knowledge that's often difficult to discover.

Marks, notations and other marginalia present in the original volume will appear in this file - a reminder of this book's long journey from the publisher to a library and finally to you.

Usage guidelines

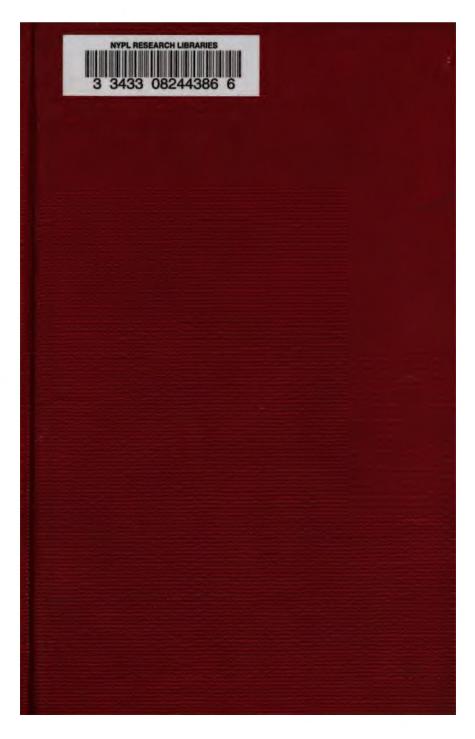

Google is proud to partner with libraries to digitize public domain materials and make them widely accessible. Public domain books belong to the public and we are merely their custodians. Nevertheless, this work is expensive, so in order to keep providing this resource, we have taken steps to prevent abuse by commercial parties, including placing technical restrictions on automated querying.

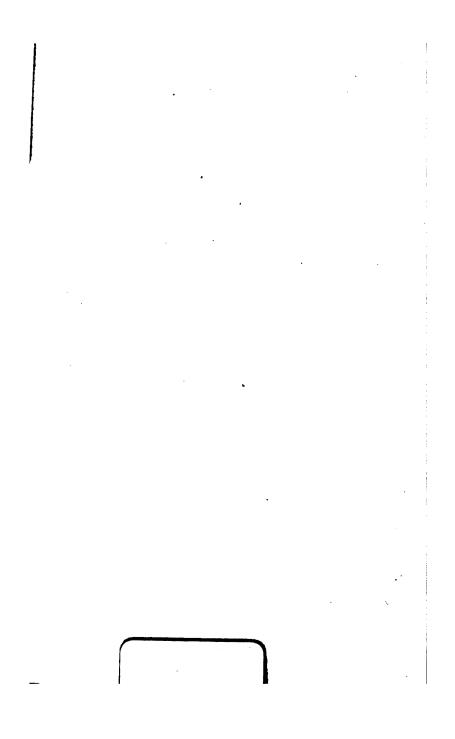

We also ask that you:

- + Make non-commercial use of the files We designed Google Book Search for use by individuals, and we request that you use these files for personal, non-commercial purposes.
- + Refrain from automated querying Do not send automated queries of any sort to Google's system: If you are conducting research on machine translation, optical character recognition or other areas where access to a large amount of text is helpful, please contact us. We encourage the use of public domain materials for these purposes and may be able to help.
- + Maintain attribution The Google "watermark" you see on each file is essential for informing people about this project and helping them find additional materials through Google Book Search. Please do not remove it.
- + Keep it legal Whatever your use, remember that you are responsible for ensuring that what you are doing is legal. Do not assume that just because we believe a book is in the public domain for users in the United States, that the work is also in the public domain for users in other countries. Whether a book is still in copyright varies from country to country, and we can't offer guidance on whether any specific use of any specific book is allowed. Please do not assume that a book's appearance in Google Book Search means it can be used in any manner anywhere in the world. Copyright infringement liability can be quite severe.

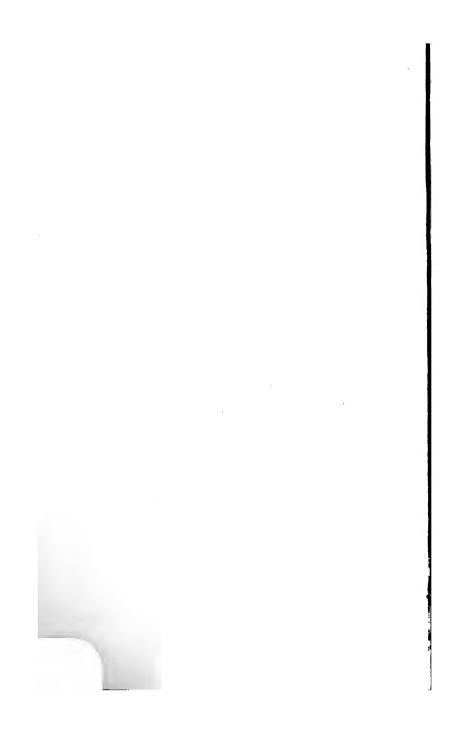

About Google Book Search

Google's mission is to organize the world's information and to make it universally accessible and useful. Google Book Search helps readers discover the world's books while helping authors and publishers reach new audiences. The place from which any vessel may arrive is signalled as soon as it can be ascertained, and before she enters the port; and the entrance of the vessel into port is denoted by the hauling down of the ball at the yard arm, and her anchoring by the lowering of the whole of the flags.

An emigrant ship is denoted by the numeral pendant hoisted above the pilot's report.

When troops are on board any vessel arriving, the numeral pendant is hoisted without the pilot's report.

When a vessel returns to port, the white numeral flag is hoisted alone, under the descriptive flag. At any time the Governor arrives, the Union Jack is hoisted above the descriptive flag.

MAIL STEAMERS.

In order to distinguish steamers of the Peninsular and Oriental and Australian Royal Mail Co.'s vessels from any other a ball will be hoisted with the signals at Fort Phillip. Whenever a ball is placed between the descriptive flag and the numerals, it will denote that the vessel signalled is

On the arrival of the mail steamer at Melbourne being telegraphed, the same is notified by the hoisting of the Company's flag with a ball underneath at the Seramphore mast head, which is kept flying one hour.

NOTE.—The numbers on the flags may easily be known from their being composed of as many stripes, or stars, as they are intended to represent. When any number higher than nine is to be represented, one flag is hoisted over the other, as 3 over 4 is 34, from China; the substitute flag being used as a duplicate—for instance, No. 3 over the substitute flag would be 33. from Calcutta.

PREFACE.

WERE it not for the opportunity it affords, of returning thanks to those Gentlemen who have on this, as well as on previous occasions, supplied us with authentic information regarding their several departments, a Preface to the Almanac might be deemed superfluous. We gladly avail ourselves of it, however, to say that we are not insensible of their kindness, and trust that in these general expressions each will feel that his services have not been overlooked, but duly appreciated.

In some parts of our labours considerable difficulty has occurred in collecting certain information; we have, however, given every thing as full as possible as far as could be ascertained, and studiously endeavoured in all cases to ensure correctness throughout. In the hurry of passing a work of this nature through the press, one or two typographical errors may chance to be observed; as these do not however in any way affect the sense, we trust due allowance will be made on considering the difficulties incidental to the proper getting up of a work of this kind.

This makes its appearance with further attempts on our part, both to maintain and improve its character. An Isometrical sketch of the leading thoroughfares was thought to be an interesting subject; it was found impossible, however, to reduce the scale in consistency with the desire to exhibit the buildings as distinctly as possible; nor was it possible to enlarge it without extending it to a size that would neither have been ornamental nor convenient. We hope in what is given that it may be a subject of interest, and that each in those localities will be enabled to recognise their residence or place of business.

Through the kindness of the Rev. W. B. CLARKE, that gentleman has not only placed in our hands an interesting Journal of the lamented LEICHHARDT, but accompanied it with an introduction and notes—the value of which it would be superfluous for us to notice, but in the perusal of which, we doubt not, the reader will feel a deep interest.

Three Maps also will be found in this volume. These are copied from the one lately issued by the Survey Office, only drawn on a larger scale, so as to admit of as many names as possible. They exhibit the Electoral and Police Districts as far as they go.

The dismemberment of Queensland ought not to pass unnoticed. Occurring so late in the year, It has been impossible to supply as much information as we could have desired; we have, however, given all the appointments yet made, and retained the Police Districts as they existed before that Colony was proclaimed.

The reader will observe that we have been at some pains to collect intelligence not only from the neighbouring Colonies, but Polynesia. The latter we know is more meagre than it ought to be, but we trust another year will furnish us with more full information. The greater portion of the work is no doubt devoted to Sydney and New South Wales, but we think sufficient is given of other parts still to allow this work to retain its claim of being essentially an Australian Almanac.

The Sun's semi-diameter, which belongs to the matter on the second page, occurs on this, for typographical convenience.

The general information of an Almanac, the days of the week, Sundays, Saints' Days, Bank and Public Holidays, Royal Birthdays, and a few Chronological Epochs and Memoranda are also found on this page.

The second page contains various items of great practical utility, and the utmost care has been bestowed to ensure the correctness of the computations. The motion of the Sun in the Heavens not being the uniform velocity, his return to the Meridian or true Northern point is not performed in equal periods of time. In all observations, therefore, where the place of the Sun forms an element, it is necessary to be aware with perfect correctness of the exact variation of this period, as compared with that which would be shewn by a clock going with perfect accuracy during the whole of the year. The Solar day, from which what is termed Solar or Apparent time is derived, varies from that of the accurate watch, or what is termed man Time, as much as 16 minutes, and the daily difference between them is called the Equation of Time, which is accurately given on our second page, and the difference between Solar and Mean time, is found by means of it. When the precept add is found at the head of the column, the clock ought to be faster by so much than a perfect sun dial, or the time deduced from the sun's altitude. Thus, when on the 1st of January, 1860, the Sun is on the Meridian and a correct sun dial would point to exact noon, the perfect chronometer would show 12h. 3m. 38e-80.

The Sun's Declination has been accurately computed for the meridian of Sydney, at apparent noon, and may be confidently used for nautical purposes, and the Sun's semi-diameter can be applied from the last page, where extreme accuracy of computation is required.

The Moon's Age in days and tenths of a day, shews the time elapsed since the conjunction of the Sun and Moon, or what is termed New Moon.

The time of High Water has been the object of special attention, and, although such calculations are of necessity only approximate, will, it is hoped, be found to be ascertained with as much accuracy as the nature of the subject will allow, and in all cases sufficiently near the truth for all practical purposes.

The time of rising and setting of the Planets, and the declination, will serve to ascertain when, and in what part of the heavens these objects will be visible.

A year is that space of time occupied by the earths entire revolution in its orbit round the sun called the Solar or Natural year, which consists of 365 days, 5 hours 48 minutes and 48 seconds. What is called the Political or Civil year consists of 865 days or 366 in leap year. The name year is evidently derived from the Latin either from aera the plural of aes brass or money, and in the plural signifying counters, or as some suppose from the initial letters ab exordio regni Augusti from the beginning of the reign of Augustus.

Charles III, Emperor of Germany was the first Sovereign who made use of the term "year of our Lord," which he added to his reign A.D. 879. It was followed by the French Kings and afterwards by the English, and is now generally adopted in all Christian countries.

This month received its name from the Romans in honor of their God Janus, a delty who was represented with two faces intended to illustrate his looking both into the old year and the new. The name was adopted and retained by the early Christians and has ever since been computed as the first month of the year in all Calendars and Almanacs. The Romans at this time were accustomed to send presents to their friends, a custom still retained by us in our New Years' Gifts.

Bissextile or Leap Year occurs every fourth year; when in order to adjust the Calendar and make it agree with the suns course, an intercalary day is added to the month of February making it in that year have 29 days. But as in the course of about one hundred and thirty-three years the excess was found to be about a day too much one Bissextile or Leap Year is cut off in a century. Thus the year 1800 though in the usual course a Bissextile Year was accounted only a common year of 365 days. The intercalary day was first added by Julius Cæsar being the day before the sixth Calend of February which being reckoned twice, or bis sixtus (twice six) we have our term of Bissextile, or Leap Year.

Every Leap Year is readily discovered by dividing the year by 4, and if there be no remainder as in 1860, then February has 29 days, but if there be a remainder as in 1859, then the month only contains 28 days.

Our Saxon ancestors called this Sol Monat, because the sun returned and warned them of the approach of spring. It was also called Sproat Kale Monat or the month in which young coleworts or cabbages begin to sprout.

Annun- [ciation]	The Sun is in South Declination, moving northward until the 20th, when he crosses the Ecliptic at the first point of Aries, or Autumnal Equinox. His motion in Declination is about 23' daily. His Meridian Zenith distance is 31° 46' on the 15th, and 38° 3' on the 31st. The length of the day diminishes about two minutes daily, from 12h '42m. on the 1st, to 11h 36m. on the 31st, the corresponding lengths of night being 11h. 18m. and 12h. 24m. Mercury a too near the Sun to be visible this month. Venus is visible in the west for a short time after sunset. Mars rises late at night, and continues visible until sunrise. Jupiter is visible from sunset until after midnight. Saturn rises before sunset and is visible the greater part of the night. The Romans were accustomed to call the first day of each month Kalends, from Kaleo I call, because when they reckoned time by the motions of the Moon, one was appointed to watch for its first appearance and call to the sacrifices. Hence a table showing the successive days of each month with their appointed festivals derived its name of a Calendar. With that people March began the year, and the months September, October, November and December literally mean the seventh, eighth, ninth and tenth months from that time. It received its name from Romulus in honor of his supposed father Mars, the God of War. The Saxons called it Rhede Rethe Monath, or boisterous month, but which was afterwards changed into Lenet Monath or length month, because in this month the day begins to exceed that of the night. As they observed the custom of fasting after they had embraced Christianity, and as the period of this observance generally fell in the Lenet Monat—it was called the Lenet Fast, which again was corrupted into our word Lent.

There are several proverbs still in use descriptive of its character such as "a bushel of March dust is worth a King's ranson." "A dry March never begs its bread." "March grass never did good," &c., &c. As we are at the antipodes of every thing here—these home sayings have little or no applicability to the Australian colonies.

Oster Monas or Easter Month was the Saxon name for April, and so named in honor of the Goddess Eoster. But like the other months it was from the Romans its name was received, being evidently derived from the Latin Aperio (to open), bestowed no doubt in allusion to the season because the earth opens her bosom and the buds burst forth under the influence of April showers.

The term month is derived from the Saxon Monat, from Mona the moon, and the division of the time into months appears to have naturally suggested itself from the return of that luminary. The Solar month is the period of the Sun passing from one to another of the twelve signs of the Zodiac. The Lunar month is the time of the Moons passing from a certain point of the Ecliptic to the same point again. A Calendar month is a twelfth division of the year, and which consists according to our Calendar of 28, 29, 30 and 31 days. A Synodical month is the interval of time from one conjunction of the Sun and Moon to another. There are twelve Solar and thirteen Lunar months in the year. This luminary is supposed to exercise great influence both over men and things, over small as well as great events. Our ancestors used to drink mead or metheglin, a beverage made from hone; for thirty days after every wedding, hence the expression to spend the honey moos.

May was regarded by our ancestors as the genial harbinger of Summer, and the first day of the month was celebrated with great rejoicings. The Romans on this occasion held a festival in honor of the Goddess Flora, but the name of the month has been handed down to us in honor of Maia the mother of Mercury. Tri Milki was the old Saxon name for it—the vegetation at that time being so rich, that the cows were milked three times a day.

The term week is derived from the Saxon Weoc, and comprises that portion of time consisting of seven days. The division of time into weeks appears to have commenced with the world; the sublime account of the creation giving evidence of tit, while the Jews, the most ancient nation on earth, always marked their time by septennials, and according to divine command rested on the seventh day. They had also their weeks of years, consisting of seven years, and of seven times seven years when they held their Jubilee. The Romans from whom we appear to have borrowed our modes of computing time did not reckon their days by sevenths until after the time of Theodosius, but divided their Calendar at one time into eighths, and at another into ninths.

The names of the days of the week are all of Saxon origin, and commemorated he detites of our Heathen Ancestry, thus Sunday—from the idol of the Sun whom he worshipped. He was represented as a man half naked, with his face like the Sun, holding a burning wheel on his breast with both hands; signifying his course ound the world, and by his flery gleams the light and heat wherewith he nourishes and warms all things.

Monday—(Monan daeg) as its name imports was dedicated to the worship of the Moon. The idol represented a woman with a short coat like a man, a large head with long ears, long sharp pointed shoes curling up at the toes, and holding a noon before her.

Tuesday was dedicated to the worship of Tuesco, the most ancient of the German Fods, whose idol was represented as attired in a peculiar garment of skin.

Wednesday, from Woden of Odins day, supposed originally to be the name of the ne true God among the first colonies, who came from the East and peopled Germany and Scandinavia, and among their posterity for several ages, till at length a mighty onqueror arose who with large armies overran the North of Europe and claimed he honors formerly paid to that deity. Hence he became their chief idol and the ucknowledged God of War and Victory.

Thursday or Thors day—He was the son of Woden and the God of the Clouds, Winds, Thunder and Lightning. In the Netherlands it is called Donders dagh or Thunders day, and hence the name of Thor or Thur probably an abbreviation of Thunure or Thunder. His image is generally represented as reclining on a couch.

Friday—(Friga daeg) She was the wife of Woden. This goddess was represented holding a drawn sword in her right hand and a bow in her left, denoting that women as well as men should fight in the time of need, though she was also the reputed giver of amity, peace and plenty.

Saturday derives its name from the idol Scater. He was represented as a lear, visaged, long haired man, bare headed and bare footed; in his right hand carrying a pail of water, wherein were fruits and flowers, and in his left a wheel; his coat fastened with a long girdle, and standing on the prickly fins of a perch intended to signify that those who worshipped him should pass through all dangers unhurt; the girdle was emblematical of freedom; the pail with water, fruit and flowers to denote that with kind rain he would nourish the earth. Such were the Gods of our Saxon Ancestors, and so universally worshipped that notwithstanding the Christian light and liberty we enjoy (for which we cannot be sufficiently grateful) their remembrance is still handed down to us, and we may truly say in every day use.

The Romans divided their months into Calends Ides and Nones. The first day was called Calends, the fifth the Nones, the thirteenth the Ides, except in March, May, July and October, when the Nones fell on the seventh, and the Ides on the

In marking the days they counted backwards; thus they called the last day of December Pridie Calendas Januarii, or the day before the Calends of January and backwards always, as so many days before the Calends of the respective months. The day as with us was divided into 12 hours, and lasted from 6 o'clock in the morning till 6 in the evening; the night was divided into four watches of 3 hours each. The Jews again divided the day (of our division of 24 hours) into 12 equal parts, called the first, second, third hour, &c., and like the account we read of the Creation when the evening and the morning were the first day, so they commence their reckoning at sun-set; the night they divided into four watches, the first being from Sun-set to the third hour of the night; the second from the third hour to the sixth; the third or cock-crowing from the sixth hour to the ninth; the fourth from the ninth hour till sun-rise.

The Julian year or old style was introduced by Julius Cæsar, who undertook to amend the Roman Calendar. He made his year consist of 365 days for three successive years; but every fourth year 366 days 6 hours. This was however found to be too much by a few minutes, which in the lapse of several centuries made a difference of 11 days.

Pope Gregory xiii, was the first who drew attention to this discrepancy, from whom the New or Gregorian style derives its name. Many of the European nations corrected their Calendar ere England did so, but an act was at last passed in 1752 directing that the eleven intermediate or nominal days between the 2nd and 14th of September should for that year be omitted. Hence the term New style now however fallen into disuse.

The twelve signs of the Zodiac are supposed to have been originally Egyptian Hieroglyphics, by which they intended to represent some remarkable natural occurrence in each month the Sun passed through these signs;—thus the first three months, beginning from the vernal equinox, were remarkable for the production of those animals which they nurtured and valued, represented by the Ram, the Bull and the Goat, while the latter generally produced in pairs gave the name to the Twins.—When in the fourth month the Sun arrives at the summer solstice he discontinues his progress towards the north and begins to go southward, this retrograde movement the Egyptians expressed by the crab, which is said to go backwards. The Lion, by his strength and fierceness, represents the raging heat of July.—The Virgin Reaper or Gleaner, is appropriate to harvest.—The Autumnal Equinox, when the days and nights are equal, by the scales.—October frequently a sickly season by the Scorpion—The diversion of hunting chiefly followed after the fall of the leaf by the archer.—The Goat which delights to brouse up hill, was emblematical of the Sun ascending from the southern tropics—Aquarius or the Water Pot, appropriately represents the rains or snows of winter,—and the two fishes in a band probably had a reference to the prime fishing season, commencing in February.

It was not till the middle of the sixth Century that dates began to be expressed from the birth of our Lord. Before that time the Romans were accustomed to reckon from the foundation of Rome, but when the Christians had so increased in number as to be of some importance in the community, it was resolved to adopt the epoch of the birth of Christ as their point of departure in counting time and expressing dates. An investigation into the date of that event was thus rendered necessary; historical researches were accordingly made which resulted in assigning to it the 25th of December of the 753rd year from the foundation of Rome. It would, naturally therefore be supposed that the first day of the new year should reckon from that date, as indeed it ought; but the Roman computation beginning the year at a time so very near to it, it was found inconvenient to make any change, and it was resolved to adhere to that hitherto used by the Church, that is, the first of January; and that the first year of the Christian Era should be the 754th year from the foundation of Rome.

GARDEN AND FIELD CALENDAR.

The cultivation of the earth possesses so many claims on our attention both as regards the necessaries, comforts, and luxuries of life; that the routine generally followed is looked for in a work of this nature as a guide to a certain extent for future operations. It is manifestly impossible however, in the varieties of soil and climate that this colony presents, to compile such a manual as will be useful in all parts alike; or to give any other directions than of a general nature. Amateurs and others must therefore look to their own experience and judgment to guide them more than to any directions that could be given; but by carefully noting their operations and results from month to month and year to year, they would thus be enabled to compile a directory of their own, suitable for the particulars of soil and climate they enjoy, and more satisfactory for the practical purposes they apply to. At the same time the following is the result of many years experience in the County of Cumberland, and with allowances for the diversity of place will no doubt be found useful.

FIELD.

It may be observed, that winter and spring are considered the best seasons for breaking up new land. If it be of a low and swampy nature, plough some after harvest, that the winter frosts may sweeten it; but if the land be hilly it is better not to plough too soon, lest the heavy rains to which we are subject, wash away the best of the soil. Wheat is about the only seed that requires treatment previous to sowing to prevent smut—a good pickle is made of Bluestone (sulphate of copper), three ozs. for every bushel of seed. The fly and the weavil are the enemies the farmer has most to contend against; it is to be lamented no cure has yet been discovered for their depredations; but the only way to prevent in some measure their evil effects, is to thrash the grain as early as possible, expose it on a floor about two or three inches deep and frequently turn it. The best way, however, when it can be done, is to grind it at once; as though weavils eat Flour they do not penetrate nor injure it, nor do they harbour or breed in it.

GARDEN.

In forming a kitchen or flower garden, the best land is a swampy loam or rich earth, which should be well trenched, not less than two feet deep, so as to be not of a binding nature in summer nor retentive of rain in winter. The roots of peas, beans, spinach and many others, penetrate that depth in search of nutriment. For a flower garden, the blending of colors should be studied; for instance, scarlet and pink flowers should never be put close to each other nor should those of the same color be brought into juxtaposition; but a light with a dark color harmonize—a yellow with a scarlet—a white with a blue, and so on. Care should also be taken to keep up a succession of flowers, by sowing at different times, and such seeds as tend to keep up a bloom through the whole year.

JANUARY.

KITCHEN GARDEN.—Continue to sow for succession peas, beans, turnips, carrots, lettuce, parsnips, radish, parsley and all herbs, cauliflowers, brocoli, &c., If you wish to have a regular supply of these, some should be planted out every ten or twelve days. If you have not ground enough at liberty plant them between the rows of peas and beans, and by the time the plants are struck and begun to grow, the peas and beans will be ready to take up. Transplant leeks and celery. Pull up forward crops of keeping onions and stop shoots of pumpkins, vegetable marrow, encumbers &c., Water plants that have lately been put out, seed beds and young seedlings.

FLOWER GARDER.—Nothing spoils the appearance of a garden so much as weeds and dead leaves, these should be removed as they appear. Water should not be spared, care being taken to do so only after the sun has gone down. Trim and regulate plants. Dahllas may be planted. Stake and carefully tie up such as require it. Shade delicate plants from the scorching mid-day sun.

ORCHARD AND FRUIT GARDEN.—Bud fruit trees, roses and choice shrubs, Carefully attend to vines, keeping them free from weeds and insects. Gather ripe fruit. Thin what is superfluous. Birds are very destructive to fruit and should be watched where it can be done; it is well to tie up the bunches of grapes in paper or muslin bags.

FIELD OPERATIONS.—Clean and hill up maize. Break up ground for barley, &c. Cut tobacco crop, which should be ready about the end of the month. Carefully go ever the cotton crop, and gather all ripe pods.

FEBRUARY.

KITCHEN GARDEN.—Celery must be earthed up as required, and more may be planted out for a succession. Continue to sow peas, beans, beet, turnips, brocoli &c., and plant out whatever may be left in the seed beds. Carefully attend to cucumber plants, watering well in dry weather.

Flower Garder.—Thin out dahlia buds. Plant out perennial and biennial flower plants such as stocks, sweet-williams, &c. in cloudy days, and give them water. Keep all beds and borders free from weeds, remove all decayed bloom.

ORCHARD AND FRUIT GARDEN.—Attend to all fruit trees, removing all ripe fruit. Clear grape vines from all useless shoots and tendrils; see that all the branches are exposed to the sun and air.

FIRLD OPERATIONS.—Sow Cape barley and turnips. Plant potatoes. Keep maize crops clean. Cut tobacce. Gather all ripe cotton pods, taking care not to injure or break the plants.

MARCH.

KITCHEN GARDEN.—Sow vegetables as in last month. Plant potatoes, cauliflower, brocoll, eschalots, celery, lettuce, &c. Clear and thin spinach and earth up turnips, potatoes, celery &c., as they seem to require it. Hoe the ground and destroy all weeds. If it was not done before tie up your onions choosing a dry day for the purpose; seed should also be gathered in dry weather as they ripen, such as leeks, onions, &c.; thin your seed beds.

FLOWER GARDEN.—Weeds cannot be too carefully eradicated and water should be plentifully used in dry weather. If the ground becomes caked as it is apt to do loosen it with a light hoe or rake. Plant Cape bulbs. Propagate herbaceous plants. Keep flower beds and borders clean and in good order.

ORCHAED AND FRUIT GARDEN.—In moist weather, plant out strawberries Examine fruit trees and vines. Gather all ripe fruit.

FIELD OPERATIONS.—Prepare ground for wheat, oats, &c. Sow Cape barley, mangel wurzel, &c., and towards the end of the month, wheat. Gather sorghum saccharatum if ripe, and cotton pods.

APRIL.

KITCHEN GARDEN.—If you have any large cabbage plants in seed beds, plant them out in rows. Plant also culinary herbs. Earth up your celery as required. Continue to sow peas, brocoli, lettuce, onions, turnips, radish, beans, cabbages. Dress all your beds, thinning out carrots, turnips, parsnips, &c. And at your vacant time, prepare new beds, trenching and manuring all unoccupied ground.

FLOWER GARDEN.—Plant different kinds of bulbs, such as tulips, &c. Flowering shrubs and herbaceous plants may be propagated and transplanted. When tender plants have to be removed, keep as much earth about the roots as possible. This is a good month for making edgings round borders. Box, lavender, thyme, daisies, sea plaks, &c., make very nice edgings; but when these cannot be carried out in sufficient quantity, a good border of turf looks very well, but it must always be kept very clean and well trimmed.

ORCHARD AND FRUIT GARDEN.—Plant raspberry, gooseberry, strawberry, and currants. Gather all ripe fruit. In gruning raspberries all the old stems that produced fruit this summer must be taken out.

FIELD OPERATIONS.—Sow wheat, Cape barley and cats. The tobacco crop should be carefully watched, and cut as it becomes ripe.

MAY.

KITCHEN GARDEN.—Sow broad beans, peas, onions, cabbages, radishes, lettuce, and spinach. Transplant horse radish, eschalots, rhubarb, asparagus, leeks, and all culinary herbs. Save cabbages and onions for seed. Trench and manure new ground. Clean all beds from weeds. Pampkins and vegetable marrow that have not yet been gathered, should now be done if quite ripe; taking care to store them in a dry place.

FLOWER GARDEN.—Plant biennial and perennial plants, bulbs, shrubs, ornamental trees, and edging. Keep grass walks, lawns, and flower borders clean. Take up, dry, and store dahlia roots. Transplant native shrubs. Manure and trench new ground.

ORCHARD AND FRUIT GARDEN.—Plant nut, apple, pear, cherry, mulberry olive, almond, quince, plum, apricot trees, &c. Dig in manure round all kinds of fruit trees. Take off all green autumnal fruit. Trench and prepare new ground.

FIELD OPERATIONS.—Sow Cape and English barley, wheat, cats for hay crop. lucerne, &c. Tobacco should be all in this month. Gather cotton. Maise should also be ready this month.

JUNE.

KITCHEN GARDEN.—Sow peas, beans, spinach, cauliflower, radish, parsley, onions, lettuce, mustard, cress, asparagus, rhubarb, &c. Draw the earth lightly round the stems of such young plants as are risen above the ground, such as beans &c. Plant all culinary herbs. Trench and manure vacant ground.

PLOWER GARDEN.—Plant cuttings of the fuschia, geranium, cactus, &c, Plant Cape bulbs, flowering shrubs, ornamental trees, herbaceous plants—edging and borders. Prepare lawns and flower beds. Take up dahlia roots if not done last month. This is a good month for transplanting or removing.

ORCHARD AND FRUIT GARDEN.—Plant apple, pear, quince, apricot, and all kinds of fruit trees. Prune vines and trim fruit trees, digging in manure carefully so as not to cut the roots.

FIELD OPERATIONS.—Sow spring barley, but on fine soil; and wheat, if the season has been dry. Gather maize. Prepare new land for cotton by deep ploughing. The crop should be all in by the middle of this month.

JULY.

KITCHEN GARDEN.—Sow prickly spinach, carrot, turnip, parenip, celery, caaliflower, peas, beans, onions, leeks, lettuce, and pareley. Plant asparagus, cabbage, brocoli, lettuce, rhubarb, artichokes, and all kinds of pot herbs. Sow early cucumbers in hot beds. Pull off what loose and decayed leaves there may be. Earth up all peas and beans that have appeared above ground, this seems to strengthen the plant. Spinach may be sowed in drills between the rows of peas and beans. Red cabbage plants may now be planted.

FLOWER GARDEN.—Sow hardy annuals, biennials, and perennials. Plant native and other shrubs, and indigenous creepers, herbaceous plants, trees, &c. Should the weather be dry, water newly planted trees and shrubs, and keep beds and borders clean Camelias which should flower this month require to be looked after. Dablia roots if not already stored should be taken up and done now.

roots II not already stored should be taken up and done now.

ORCHARD AND FRUIT GARDEM—Dress vines. Prune gooseberry, currant, and raspberry bushes. Plant vines, bananas, apple, peer, quince, peach, orange, limes apricot, pomegranate, gooseberry, currant, and raspberry. Clean and dress the ground. Continue to prune common fruit trees and vines. Plant all deciduous trees not later than this month.

FIELD OPERATIONS.—Plough for tobacco. In the colder parts of the colony, wheat and barley may be sown this month. Manure and dress cotton plants, and prepare new land.

AUGUST.

KITCHEN GARDEN.—Sow beet, carrot, turnip, spinach, peas of different kinds, parsnips, French beans, brocoli, cabbage, Scotch kale, sea kale, Brussels sprouts, broad beans, leeks, onions, celery, radish, eucumber, melons, culinary herbs, &c. Radish and lettuce seeds should be sown two or three different times this month. Plant potatoes, cabbages, cauliflowers, artichokes, rhubarb, and all kinds of culinary herbs. Earth up asparagus with sand and manure. Let the air freely circulate, and keep down weeds. If you have any vacant ground in your garden, trench it to be in readiness for next month.

FLOWER GARDEN.—Dig and dress flower beds. Sow annuals. Plant carnations, and all sorts of herbaceous plants. Finish planting trees and shrubs, &c., this month. Annuals and perennials may be sown towards the end of the month, if the weather is mild.

ORCHARD AND FRUIT GARDEN.—Plant banana, citron, lime, orange, lemon, guava, fig, custard apple, and loquats. All evergreen fruit trees should be in this month. Prune vines, fig, and common fruit trees. Hoe strawberry beds and keep orchard clean.

FIELD OPERATIONS.—Manure and prune cotton plants. Prepare new land for cotton, maize, and tobacco. Plant potatoes. Early tobacco crop may be sown late this month.

SEPTEMBER.

KITCHEN GARDEN.—Sow peas, broad beans, French beans, cucumber, lettuce, cabbage, Swedish turnip, Brussels sprouts, brocoli, endive, leeks, onions, melons, pumpkins, vegetable merrow, radiabes, spinous, procoll, endure, leeks, omlons, melons, pumpkins, vegetable merrow, radiabes, spinach, parsley, capsicums, tomatoes, &c. Plant potatoes, thyme, marjoram, garlick, eschalots, rhubarb, kale, artichokes, lettuce, caulifower, and cabbage. Dress asparagus and artichoke beds. Keep all the ground free from weeds as far as possible.

FLOWER GARDEN.—Plant dahlias, carnations, ranunculus, anemones, and roses.
Train climbing plants. Protect tulips and other tender flowers. Sow tender annuals, and other flowers, as stocks, &c. Destroy all insects. Hand weed small beds; and water flower beds, should the weather be dry.

ORCHARD AND FRUIT GARDEN.—Be careful in removing all insects and keeping the ground clean. Tend vines and put out cuttings. Sow melons of all sorts.

Prune, graft, and plant young trees.

FIELD OPERATIONS.—Sow tobacco, maise, Swedish turnips, sorghum, lucerne, and all artificial grasses. Sow cotton seeds. All kinds of manuring and pruning should be completed early this month.

OCTOBER.

KITCHEN GARDEN.—Sow peas, French beans, celery, onions, turnips, pumpkins, vegetable marrow, cucumber, lettuce, radish, endive, cabbage, brocoli. Plant sweet potatoes, capsicums, garlick, eschalots. Earth up celery. At all times keep the beds free from weeds. And this month they will be shewing themselves with strong desires to dispute the possession of the ground.

FLOWER GARDEN.—Sow balsams and tender annuals, biennials, perennials, stocks and mignionettes. Continue to train climbing plants. The roots of bulbs that have done flowering should be taken up and stored. Water frequently in dry weather and shade plants recently transplanted.

ORCHARD AND FRUIT GARDEN.—Look carefully after new budded trees. Remove all barren shoots and tendrils from vines. Lop all fruit bearing shoots. Destroy all insects. Remove all suckers as they advance. Water well in dry weather.

FIELD OPERATIONS.—Prepare new land. Sow maize and sorghum. Plant tobacco. Sow cotton seed, and keep the young plants free from weeds.

NOVEMBER.

This month begins the Australian summer, which extends to the 1st of March. During this period though the thermometer range from 74 to 95, the cooling sea breezes which are felt more or less over so much of the colony, render the heat rarely oppressive. Vegetation is very rapid and where one was employed formerly to keen down weeds it is doubly requisite now.

KITCHEN GARDEN.—Sow pumpkins, cucumbers, cauliflowers, vegetable marrows, endive, lettuce, spinach, celery, peas, rhuberb. Water and shade cucumbers if weather be dry. Earth up celery. Keep all beds free from weeds, and thin plants where necessary.

FLOWER GARDEN.—Plant dahlias. When tulips, hyacinths, and other bulbs have done flowering they should be taken up and dried. Propagate carnations by layers. Clear flower borders, shrubberies, and walks from weeds and dead leaves. In dry weather do not spare water; but as, has been already remarked, this operation should only be performed after sundown.

ORCHARD AND FRUIT GARDEN.—Remove all useless shoots from fruit trees and grape vines; trim and tie up vines exposing the bunches to the sum. Thin trees of superfluous fruit, and gather fruit as they ripen.

FIELD OPERATIONS.—Attend carefully to young tobacco plants—keeping the ground clear of weeds. Earth up malze. Sow millet and sorghum. Watch young sotton plants. The harvest commences towards the end of this month.

DECEMBER.

KITCHEN GARDEN.—Sow peas, beans, cabbages, cauliflowers, radishes, endive, carrots, parsnips, turnips, rhubarb, spinach. Plant potatoes, celery in trenches to blanch earthing it up gradually, eschalots, cabbages, and cauliflowers. Clean and thin beds. Stop superfluous shoots of cucumber, pumpkin &c. The routine for October, November, and December, is very much the same, both for the kitchen, and the flower garden. At this season two things require to be constantly borne in mind, weed well and water well.

FLOWER GARDEN.—Plant all hardy kinds of annuals and dahlias for succession. Take up and dry bulbs. Shade and water as required.

OBCHARD AND FRUIT GARDEN.—Let the grapes receive great attention. Secure trees planted in autumn from being shaken by the winds; destroy all insects; remove suckers; thin fruit, and gather as they ripen.

FIELD OPERATIONS.—Top tobacco; removing all side shoots, and those that hang on the ground, leaving from eight to twelve according to the size and strength of the plant. Earth up maize and potatoes. Attend to and regulate cotton plants. The harvest should be general this month.

DR. LEICHHARDT'S THIRD EXPEDITION, EDITED BY THE REV. W. B. CLARKE, M.A., F.G.S., F.R.G.S., &c.

In the year 1847, after his return from the unsuccessful expedition of the previous year to Peak Range, Leichhardt made a short journey to the westward of Darling Downs, for the purpose of connecting his own lines of previous exploration with the country along the Maranoa, traversed by the late Sir T. L. Mitchell, during his expedition to the head of the Victoria River, in the year 1846, and subsequently by Mr. Kennedy.

In the letters I addressed to the Sydney Morning Herald, in August 1858, and in a paper read before the Royal Geographical Society of London, in the same year, on the "Desert" in connection with the expeditions in search for Leichhardt, I quoted certain passages, from the following diary, which is the only record of the expedition of 1847.

It appears, therefore, advisable, that the diary itself, which has never before been published, should now see the light; for it not only completes the history of Leichhardt's expeditions up to the fatal one of 1848, but furnishes to the enquirer the authority upon which I rested some of the conclusions respecting certain matters involved in my discussion of Leichhardt's fate.

The account of the expedition now published, begins at Mr. Gogg's Station on the Downs, and terminates, in fact, on the Maranoa; but the return route being different from the westward route, the following pages give, in fact, the details of two explorations.

The chart appended is a reduced copy of the original M.S. chart given to me by Leichhardt on his return. Scale one-ninth.

The country described is now, I believe, occupied; but the diary gives the condition of it before occupation, and is, so far, interesting to geographers.

There are two striking correspondences, under date of 27th August, with notices in the "Tropical Australia" of Mitchell, at page 152 and at page 379, which may merit remark. Both L. and M. mention—the one a river, the other a large creek, having "reedy waterholes"—bordered by Acacia pendula (M.) or long linear-leaved Acacia (L.) Both describe a double branch of this water. Mitchell's locality (26 deg. 42 min. 27 sec. S. was not reached by Leichhardt (26 deg. 40 min. S.) till three days after he came upon the features he describes; we see, therefore, how remarkably the character of the rivers in Australia is persistent, and how nearly, by accurate descriptions, their features may be recognized. Mitchell first called attention to this fact, and we have here an undesigned coincidence illustrative of it.

Again, Mitchell mentions on his return from the Victoria, that on the Balonne, one of the "cheering" peculiarities of the scene was "the merry notes of numerous birds," and we have Leichhardt, stating—"I could not help remarking how cheerfully the birds sing near these creeks, the Oreoica (the ventriloquist), the Magpie, the little Flycatcher, and several others made themselves incessantly heard."

There is also a general agreement between the two explorers respecting the temperature of that region. Mitchell gives in many instances a sunrise temperature so low as 19 deg. F. and 20 deg. F., and Leichhardt, in September, mentions ice, and a temperature of 24 deg. and 26 deg.

As evidencing, moreover, an additional proof of the general extent of atmospherical influences over wide tracts in Australia, (of which I gave several examples in the Notes on Kennedy's Expedition, in the Journal of the Geographical Society, vol. xxii), it may be mentioned, that Leichhardt says he had ice on the Maranoa in 26 deg. 53 min. S. on the night of 31st August, 1847; and on turning to my own journal I find that at St. Leonard's, at 11 p.m., 31st August, and again at 8 a.m., 1st September, the temperature was 47 deg., and on 31st August, at 7 a.m., 42 deg. I find also frost occurred here on 1st and 2nd September, and on the 3rd it was "cold." Leichhardt mentions ice on the 1st, and says the "southerly" wind was very chilly on the 3rd; the wind here being from S.E.; that night the temperature here was as high as from 53 deg. to 56 deg., and on the Maranoa, the night was extremely mild;" the thermometer at sunrise being 54 deg. whilst here it was nearly the same. We learn also, that the wind there was "easterly"; it was S.E. here, becoming due east on the 5th September.

Again, on the night of the 9th September Leichhardt mentions that it was mild—and on the 10th he had rain, thunder, and westerly wind; at St. Leonard's the wind was from N. and N.W., and on the 9th there were a hot wind lightning and the appearance of a heavy storm, with rain on the evening of the 9th and on the 10th.

Lastly, the northerly wind of the night of the 26th August with Leichhardt, was similar to the N.E. wind which commenced here the same day and became north on the next; a heavy gale blowing the while from the north along the east coast of Tasmania.

The only other observation I have to make on this diary is, that Leichhardt mentions the existence of some probably new animal, from traces of burrows of a peculiar kind, observed on 26th August on the Horse-track River, and he makes further mention of it on the 7th of September as burrowing in "red soil." Now Mitchell mentions (Tropical Australia, p. 150) that the "red" decomposed rock of the country on the Cogoon was "hollowed out by some burrowing animal, whose tracks had opened ways through the thick thorny scrub," enabling him to lead his horses to the top of Mount Red Cap.

As these traces of the supposed new animal extend over several miles of country, it may be of use, if some settler there will endeavour to ascertain what this animal is, and whether it is really—new.

W. B. CLARKE.

St. Leonard's, 18th October, 1859.

Monday, the 15th August, 1847.—We were encamped on Acacia Creek, where we arrived yesterday evening very late in coming from Gogg's, miscaking Gogg's Station road for Windeyer's Dray-road. Windeyer has built a bridge over the Dogwood Creek, which we did however not see. The waterholes had so steep banks that our mules and horses went very far in search of water. The boiling of our salt meat, with which Gogg had kindly provided us, took also a long time. We did not start before 12 o'clock; travelled 2½ miles N.W. to Dogwood Creek; went about ½ mile upit to our crossing place; travelled down 2½ miles S. and S.W. to the crossing place of my first expedition. The ground along the ridges, either very rotten or Cypresspine ridges, from the crossing place of my first expedition. The ground along the ridges, with many lagoons and water-gums. Wommai shot here three ducks. We passed the white-tree camp, crossed the creek, which is here lined with a small Tea-tree and has rocky holes. We travelled N.W. about leaved Ironbark were prevailing timber. We crossed two rocky watercourses, the last of which spread out higher up in narrowwater Gum-tree flats. Here our dogs ran a native dog, but did not kill him. The country opened—several ridges and hills, one of which I descended to the southward; came to a watercourse which went west, and found very soon water—about 14 miles in 5½ hours.

miles in 5½ hours.

Tuesday, the 17th August.—Yesterday, about five-six species of Acacia were found in blossom; the colour of all is yellow; one has a pinnate leaf the others phyllodia. One with glaucous phyllodia resembles so much the pinnate one that I should not be surprised if they were only sexually different; the Acacia with hooked phyllodia, which I found formerly, was not met with, as I kept to the left of my former tracks. To-day we found a small shrubby Grevillea, with iron-coloured blossoms, it grew principally in the rusty-gum forest. A small shrub spreading out in round patches, belonging to the Lythrum tribe (10stam. 1 pist.), was growing in similar localities. We followed the watercourse for a short distance—it turned to the S.W.; I kept W. and came on another watercourse which I equally followed; it turned also S.W. and S. After 3 miles we came to the large creek, which, no doubt, is my Bottle-tree-scrub creek. It has abundance of water, and its bed is sandy and sound; parallel lagoons in the large grassy valley with fine Water-gum-trees—the timber was Ironbark, Gum, Cypresspine, Forest-oak—Bricklow scrub was seen to the right.—Three miles farther through rusty-gum forest, we came to a fine rocky creek with plenty of water, but stiff grasses and grass-tree; 1½ miles further another water-course, and shortly afterwards another joining the former; the remaining 3 miles were fine undulating or flat, Ironbark forest well grassed, very open. At the end of the stage, about 12 miles W.S.W. from our last night's camp, a fine chain of ponds full of water in a very open country, with Dombomgum prevailing; the flats with Apple-tree. A kangaroo was chased by Camden into a waterhole, and shot by Wommai. We saw long patches of forest-land burnt by the natives—kangaroo bones and broken emu eggs in an old camp—to-day and yesterday, fine weather, but cloudy—the night clear, the latter part of it cold with heavy dew.

Wednesday, the 18th August.-After having finished our Kangaroo tail soup, and a good sized piece of damper, we started full of anticipations of what the day would bring. The country kept its open character for about 11 miles, when we came on a good sized creek, with water almost running, at least filtering through the sands and pebbles. Our course was S.70 deg W We continued for about 21 to 3 miles longer, the forest became close and when we turned a little to the right in order to avoid it, I came again on the creek we had left. We followed it up for about 2 miles. Hills and ledges of rock enclosed it from both sides. When we ascended the gully which formed its head, we came on a tableland with patches of the hook-leafed acacia and of Backea. Another species of Acacia, the long branches of which covered with yellow blossoms formed as many rays, made a pleasing impression on the eye: a species of Hakea with red blossoms and the leaves of Ac. pungens but pinnatifid, was also tolerably abundant. Two miles further, during which the country fell towards S.E., I came on another creek with sharp rocky ledges on which Boronia latifolia? grew. We now changed our course to S.W. and when this brought us to another rocky creek, we turned to the southward in order to come to a less broken country. We had scarcely left this creek when Bricklow made its appearance to the right and left. Box with Vitex formed the forest between the rush of waters to the southward. We followed this and came to dry waterholes-the scrub continued and the box flat widened, and when we turned round the scrub to the S.W. we passed for 4 miles over most beautiful open box ridges. Myall grew on several spots; the open country extended to the S.E. as far as the eye could reach. At the end of the stage we came to a fine creek with very large ponds of water, which no doubt are permanent. Musselshells are everywhere; Myall is abundant; the sandflies are troublesome, first part of last night cloudy, latter part clear. Thermometer at sunrise 38 deg.. Slight airs from N.W.

Thursday, the 19th August.—We travelled about 5 miles to the westward; for 2 miles the open ridges continued; but soon Vitex and Myall scrub filled the Box forest and further on treeless plains surrounded with scrub, which reminded me of the scrub plains of the Dawson, enticed me on in the same course. Dense scrub and scrubby hills however stopped my progress, and I had to beat back following the outline of the scrub. I went to the S.E. and even to the eastward, pushed through some Bricklow scrub and came at last to a lower part of the creek which we had left and which ran S.E. & S. and turned at our present camp to the S.S.W. From the scrub plains we saw blackfellows' smoke to the southward. The country along the creek is open with Myall and Box, the waterholes are large, deep and reedy, and it seems that this creek forms the outline of a scrubby country, and is the receptacle of its waters. Wommai shot a duck—we saw many kangaroos. It was cloudy in the afternoon; slight wind from the southward. Sandflies made their appearance; swallows and orewilla.

Friday, the 20th August.—My latitude is 26 deg. 39 min., thermometer 40 deg. Night dewy not too cold. Wommai had tethered the horse too near the boggy waterhole, it went into the water and got bogged. After much trouble we succeeded in getting it out. Breakfast, fat cake (3lbs.) and one black duck. I wished to follow the creek, which I hoped would turn to the S.W. I was however mistaken, it went to the S.E. Now I left it and passed some Myall groves and Box trees with Vitex underwood and entered the scrub in a due west direction; this scrub was of the same composition as the Flourgill, patches of Casuarina, of Bricklow, either in shrubs or trees, rises of Cypresspine and narrow-leaved Ironbark. One of these rises was higher than the other and it seemed to me that it formed a watershed, the creeks E. of it going to the E. and S.E.; those to the West of it going to the Southward. After 9 miles westing and slightly southing I came on a watercourse going to the westward which I followed down. It soon brought me to a larger creek, with as fine ponds of water as those in the creek we had left. Here our dogs started an emu, with a great number of young ones; the mother defended her brood against Camden, but ran away when Wommai came with his horse. Chase was given; but it was unsuccessful. I followed the large creek for about 4 miles. It is very open with Box ridges, which are perfectly sound, and Myall groves occasionally along its banks. On the patches of young grass, numerous emus must have fed, for their dung was very abundant. When the creek emus must have fed, for their dung was very abundant. When the creek turned to the southward (its course had been W. and even N.W.) we passed over the ridge and dropped into the valley of another creek, equally provided with water. I dare say we came about 13 miles W., 20 deg. S. Beautiful weather; cumuli during the afternoon; I suffered a great deal of palpitation of the heart (perhaps in consequence of strong tea and smoking); I dreamt • she was as bloomof and ing and beautiful as ever, and showed (as I dreamt at least) some solicitude about me.

Saturday, the 21st August.—We had scarcely travelled 11 miles to the westward, when we came to a small creek with the usual character, shallow beds, and sedgy boggy water holes, with a good supply of bad water. Continuing to the westward we came to a Bricklow shrub which we skirted, and continued over fine Box and silver-leaved Iron-bark hills for about 24 miles, when a large creek was before us running N.-S.; the hills rose higher on its right bank, and I thought of seeing plains gleaming through the forest-I was however mistaken; for after 2 miles travelling we entered a most infernal scrub, through which we worked for about 4 miles, when we came to an opening and a watercourse, which we followed down for about 8 miles; it soon took the character of the other creeks, and its holes were excellently supplied with water; the natives seemed particularly fond of it, for their humpies were almost on every waterhole, and they had burned the old grass, probably to have a chance at the numerous kangaroos, one of which we saw slowly jumping from one of the waterholes into the scrub. The ducks were very numerous. Wommai shot one, and Mr. Bunce two. Our tether horse, which had been bogged two days ago. was almost knocked up; the night was rather mild; the boggy nature of the waterholes has the great inconvenience, that our mules and horses are too afraid to approach, and go, consequently, without their fair allowance of water.

Sunday, the 22nd August.—We had a duck breakfast, and started early in order to follow the creek farther down; for the scrub prevented us taking a more advantageous course, the creek running S.S.E. and perhaps S.E. Lower down the Box-flats became puffy; and still lower the Cypresspine and the White-gum appeared on the rising ground; the waterholes got partly (particularly on the right side) rocky; rotten sandstone. After about 7 miles collateral lagoons formed; low Box-flats, all inundated during high water, extended along the creek; the rising ground was very rotten; the scrub seemed to recede, and we left the creek, steering for the smoke of the natives. As we went along to the S.W., and westward, skiring the scrub, smoke rose all along to the S.W., W. and N.W., and I expected a large creek before us. That was the case—after 3 miles travelling we came to the deep channel of a good-sized creek, larger than Dogwood Creek, with flood-marks above the banks. A large body of water must come down occasionally; the bed is sandy and sound; the water was still running; the character of the country is very much that of Dogwood creek; Cypresspine and White-gum on a rotten soil; the natives appear very numerous. Mr. Bunce and Wommai remained behind duck shooting, and have not yet arrived—I hope no accident has happened. A cold southerly wind was blowing the whole day; clouds passed in the morning, but disappeared about 9 o'clock. I suffered again from palpitations, though I have not smoked these two last days. Mr. Bunce has told me many very annoying stories about M..., H..., and T...., which trouble me a great deal.

Wednesday, the 25th August .- The two absentees did not come up to the camp on Sunday evening nor during the forenoon of Monday; I consequently supposed that a serious accident had happened either to Mr. Bunce or to Wommai, and resolved to return to the creek we had left, to ascertain in what direction they had gone. We fired again at sunset, but without receiving any answer, and I was in the greatest anxiety about their fate. Next morning, however, just when we were looking out for our horses, they arrived. They had continued down the creek without ascertaining the direction of our tracks; they had come to the junction of our creek with a very large one; had found three fresh horse-tracks, and supposing them our's had followed them until late at night; they had crossed the large creek, to which we had come on Sunday; next day they had still continued and had considered that the mule-tracks were wanting, but foolishly supposed that the natives had rushed us. They now returned and camped on Monday night again at the little creek where they had lost us. Next morning they had come on our returning tracks and had followed them to the camp; they had seen a great number of natives, and had spoken with some of them; they had seen the little gin with the white patch on the neck, who passed our camp in going up to the Bunya Bunya. The most careless inattention to our tracks had produced all this loss of time and all this anxiety. We saddled our mules, after their finishing their breakfast, and went on their tracks about 2 miles beyond Sunday Creek, the fresh tracks belonged to three horses, two of which were shod; one horse had a very broad hoof—one of the party had walked. The natives, whose fires were burning all about, and whose cooses and tomahawks we had heard in Sunday Camp, had followed those tracks which we supposed to be Archer's and Chauvel's, 2 miles below the junction of Sunday Creek with the supposed Dogwood Creek, and struck off to the westward, the creek turning a little to the southward. The country was the same as that between Bunce's and Sunday Creeks,—Cypresspine forest, with the glaucous pinnate Acacia in full blossom (a magnificent sight), the soil puffy; the Box flats near the river small-subject to inundations, with patches of bare rock towards the banks. After having left the river, we continued westward until scrubs compelled us to go the southward. We skirted the scrubs, and made about 73 miles W. 15 deg. S. and camped at a small scrubby creek, which, according to Wommai, joined the river about two miles lower

To-day, the 25th,—We skirted again the scrubs, and we succeeded in finding tolerable country about 4 miles to the N.W. It was an open Myall scrub with dense Bricklow to our right. We passed over a ridge of open forest land (narrow-leaved Ironbark and Cypresspine); about 1 mile further we saw the high hill to our left; the country, for the other 7 miles was, west changingly open, undulating Box forest and scrub. One Dodonaea scrub pushed us again to the southward. We crossed the heads of several watercourses and a swamp about 1 mile to the east of a river which reminds me still stronger of the Robinson than Sunday Creek. It has a sandy bed, with tea-trees growing in it; it is not running, but the small pools are covered with ironocre; the waterholes are partly well boggy. Exactly at our crossing-place we found the tracks of a party of horsemen, which appear different from those of Archer, as the big-hoofed horse is wanting. Wommai says, "they were four persons."

August 26th.—Yesterday morning the thermometer was 24 deg., this morning, at sunrise, 38 deg. The first part of night cloudy—cleared up at 10 o'clock; we travelled about 14 miles due west; after having left the river, in the bed of which well-polished pieces of fossil wood and variously coloured flints were found, we passed over 1-1; mile of grassy country with Appletree resembling that at Charley's Creek After that we passed for 5 miles through a scrubby box country with Bricklow, Myall and Vitex; for 2 miles the country opened into a pleasing Moreton Bay ash forest, with a large tree Acacia and clusters of Vitex. Here we met first with the deep hurrow of an unknown spingle, the open shoft was about 5 feat deep and the burrow of an unknown animal—the open shaft was about 5 feet deep, and the burrow itself went from the bottom of it horizontally: it was about 11 feet in diameter, the track resembled that of a child, the dung that of an old man kangaroo. From this open country which seemed to extend to the southward, we entered into a Dodonaea scrub for several miles and came out into a scrubby Cypresspine country with several fine Box hollows extending to a scrubby Cypresspine country with several line box nonlows extending the south by W., and joining probably a large creek from the northward with long reedy waterholes, with a sound bed, with fine watergum and small narrowleaved tea trees. The confines of the river are rather thickly wooded with Box saplings and Myall. The character of the country in general was scrubby, unfit for any pastoral purposes; but it is probable that it opens and improves along the river which I suppose to be to the southward. Our mule No. 4 was bogged in the river of yesterday; horse tracks were seen coming from the westward; they belonged to 5 horses, two of which coming from the westward; they belonged to 5 horses-two of which appeared to be leading horses. Four native companions and 4 small cranes were seen yesterday evening, and we took them as the indication of lagoons or swamps along the river; a flight of ducks passed our camp during the night and went down the river. We live again on our dried beef for breakfast.

August the 27th.—When we were sitting last night near the fire, we heard the disagreeable call of a nightbird, a loud shrill "pish-sh-sh. Wommai watched it, and succeeded in shooting it; it proved to be the little owl Cyclops delicatula or elegans of Gould. Behind a little shrub a bird (probably a goatsucker) had camped for a long time, he had left a large heap of dung. The thermometer was 38 deg. immediately after sunrise; it is now at sunset 70 deg. We travelled about 20 miles west, 6 deg. south over the most miserable country. After 33 hours we came to the first large creek, with sample head to the first large creek, with sample head to the first large creek. with sandy bed, reedy waterholes: small-leafed Tea-tree and long linearleafed Acacia the natives were burning the grass near it. After 44 hours from that creek we came to another equally large, inclining to the S.E., its bed equally sandy, its waterholes reedy. Near these creeks the country was tolerably open, but scarcely one mile from each, a nasty Dodonaes and Cypresspine scrub covered the whole intervening country. It seems that these scrubs cover ridges parallel to the creeks, for we saw the high land we had left, in form of a range from the west side of the first creek, and a large range was seen to the westward of the second creek on which we are encamped. Hakea lorea is still in blossom, Stenochilus grows abundantly in the openings of the Cypress pine scrub. The first part of last night was cloudy; it cleared up from the northward at 9 o'clock. In the afternoon to-day and yesterday, the clouds got very heavy—we had full moon yesterday.

I could not help remarking how cheerfully the birds sing near these creeks, the Oreoica, (the ventriloquist) the Magnie, the little Flycatcher, and several others make themselves incessantly heard.

August, the 28th.—The thermometer 32 deg. We travelled scarcely 2 miles, when we came to ridges which were covered with Dodonaea and Vitex and Cypresspine scrub; they extended 10 miles farther and were covered at their western half with scrub of the mountain Acacia of the worst description. The dead timber made the road extremely circuitous and the progress slow. The highest pars was composed of various interesting aromatic shrubs of a species of Philotheca and of a red Metrosideros and two other rutaceous plants. Being tired of an apparently never-ceasing succession of these Acacia ridges, we took a watercourse, running W. 30 deg. S., which we followed down for 3 or 4 miles, when the waterholes became rocky, Watergum appeared round them, and they contained a supply of good water. We were encamped for a short time, and the fat cake not quite ready, when two natives walked boldly up after having coosed and received our coose in return. I met them with Mr. Isaacs about fifty yards from the camp, in order to ascertain something about the Balonne. I gave each of them three brass buttons, to show our friendly intentions, and gave them to understand that we were to sleep one night and then continue to the westward. A third youth approached afterwards; one of the old men was slim with a long beard and mustache, and very wild looking, the other was an elderly man, with a white beard, and of very quiet expression. We parted good friends, though Mr. Bunce told me that he heard them talking near our waterhole—they came perhaps there to fetch water.

August the 29th.—Thermometer 34 deg. Sunday.

Tuesday, the 31st August.—We had a sound sleep, notwithstanding the want of water, which was not felt very much by any of the party. As soon as the mules came in we started and followed the watercourse for about 7 miles S.W. by S., when Cypresspine, rocky waterholes, Watergum, and patches of fresh burnt grass appeared and the call of Grallium Australe indicated the presence of water. We made our breakfast and started, after two hours halt for 2 miles due west, when, after crossing an open ridge of Moreton Bay ash and a slight hollow I found myself on Mitchell's and Kennedy's tracks; the dray-tracks of the first were almost entirely worn out by the succeeding rains; the three cart-tracks of Kennedy, with a great number of horses, were, on the contrary very fresh. I followed the track to the northward and came, after about 3 miles, to a camp of Mitchell's, marked 80, on the river side. The river has lower down a broad sandy bed with lines of small trees, but is there without water; the large water-hole was surrounded with reeds. The country reminded me of Charly's Creek; the rises are frequently sandy with Cypresspine, Moreton Bay ash, Appletree, some few scattered silver-leaved Ironbark, and two species of Acacia (one drooping like that of Blackfellow Creek) the cocca-tree Eco was seen on the patches of fresh burnt grass; I followed the track for 4 miles further; it left the river and passed open sandy Cypresspine ridges and through Vitex scrub. I camped at a fine waterhole in a good-sized creek, in latitude 26 deg. 53 min. The flats are Box forest, more or less open, as the young saplings form long stretches of underwood. We passed the bullock's head.

September the 1st.—Thermometer 26 deg. Ice in the bucket, not on the waterhole. Turned again to Mitchell's track which, after having past several sandy Cypresspine ridges, on one of which I saw a fine Sterculia tree and whole thickets of a shrubby Aster approached the river and followed it, in cutting its windings for about 9 miles, when we came to another camp of Kennedy's with one of the trees marked 79. We expected 31 and the lessening number puzzled us not a little. At this place the river is joined by a creek from the left, running N.N.E.-S.S.W., and by another larger one from the right, running about N.W.-S.E. The course of the river for the whole extent of 12½ miles is N.N.W. Its bed is still sandy with Tea-tree bushes growing in it, and with Water-gum and Apple-tree at its banks. The flats are more or less open, with Box trees and Box saplings. The track crosses the river and follows it at its right bank. Between the west creek and the river there is ridge and two rather prominent hills, with Cypresspine and very sandy slopes. Wommai chased here an emu without success, but saw from the slope two large hills to the northward, which I supposed to be Mount Bindango and Mount Abundance; we shall come to them to-morrow. Our fat is done, and we commence with gelatine soup. Lat. 26 deg. 40 min.

September the 2nd.—Thermometer 27 degrees at sunrise. After having menaged our soup of two ducks and a bronze-winged pigeon, we started following again Kennedy's dray track. After 4 miles we saw a hill to the left and went up to its top in order to have a view; there was a range to the eastward, striking nearly N.N.W.-S.S.E.; other ranges or ridges are to the northward. It was evident, that one old dray track returning was below Kennedy's fresh tracks; it was visible by the little trees being turned to the southward. The country appeared to me either scrubby or of the same description as I had seen beforehand on the river. Mr. Isaacs, however, said that the country appeared to open to the westward, and that it was possible that the little creek we had seen joining the river was the Cogoon of Mitchell. I went consequently to the westward and came again at first to Box ridges with some Myall, and afterwards to sandy Cypresspine ridges; these continued as a division of water to the westward; we kept S.W. and S.S.W., and came at last on a forky creek and more to the southward on a chain of waterholes which brought me to the supposed Cogoon. The country did not change; the Cypresspine ridges approached frequently the creek, and formed high rocky banks: when they receded limited Box and Apple-tree flats intervened; the creek contains plenty of water, in sound good-sized water-holes. Here Mr. Bunce observed the faint track of a cart, which was probably Mitchell's reconnoitering track. The little cruciferous plant is very frequent on the sandy flats and slopes. On the slopes of the east range these sands seemed equally to exist; they first made me believe that they were plains or downs.

September 3rd.—Thermometer 40 deg. We heard distinctly the knocking of a tomahawk last night, shortly after our arrival, and this morning we past the still burning fire of a native camp, not \(\frac{1}{2} \) a mile from our own. It is probable that the passing by of our horses and mules last night had made him go away. We went down the creek to the junction for nearly 7 miles; the country was still the same limited Apple-tree and Box flats, and sandy Cypresspine ridges. From the junction (camp 79) we returned on our old track a little below camp 80. The country appeared to me best round the camp 79; the sandy ridges are very bad; the country round number 80 is extremely open, with Box, but there are many hollows which are evidently under water during any continuance of rainy weather. Wommai shot a black cormorant which was skinned and put into the soup; it had an extremely nasty smell. Mr. Isaacs has recommended Johnny cakes for the morning of the 4th of September. Southerly wind very chilly. Our old horse knocked up, and we had to leave it behind.

September the 4th.—Night extremely mild; thermometer, at sunrise, 54 deg. Easterly wind rather chilly; first part of last night cloudy. A whole swarm of white and rose Cockatoos were seen on the ground, on an apparently dried-up lagoon—they probably were feeding on some roots. Wom-mai had observed a large hole, which the natives had dug to obtain roots, the chewed parts of which were round the hole, he said they belonged to young Sterculia. We travelled about 4 miles south, when we came to the place where we first had met the dray road of Sir Thomas Mitchell. A little further south we marked a tree with a cross and an L in the wood. We travelled about 4 miles further and came to a camp of Kennedy's on a lagoon in the bed of the little creek we had camped at on the 30th August, and which we had left the 31st. It is remarkable how far these waters run parallel to each other. Fourteen miles further we came again on a camp of Kennedy, where we had tried to obtain water in the sandy bed of the river; the river had become very small and looked more like an ana-branch of that we had left at camp 80. It seemed however out of doubt that it was the same river. We continued about distance lower down and camped without water the whole country. a short distance lower down and camped without water, the whole country about us being burnt and burning. Wommai saw a native who was stooping down and apparently occupied with digging roots. He decamped as soon as he saw us. The country for the first 10 miles from camp 80 was very open and extended a good way off the river; further on hollows with water Box becomes frequent and it got densely wooded with saplings. All the hollows and lagoons were dry. Sandy ridges approached the river, and at one place a hilly country covered with a green looking viscous grass had much the appearance of real downs. But the grass was harsh and stiff and good neither for cattle nor sheep. A new species of Grevilles with downy pods was growing here. Mr. Bunce collected a fine species of Senecio, a new Gnaphaluim and a yellow cruciferous plant.

September the 5th.—We travelled 15 miles further over a densely wooded country, with many hollows and dried-up lagoons, without finding waters. We passed some high rocky ridges covered with scrub. At the end of this stage we came to a camp of Sir Thomas marked 81; the creek was even smaller than before. Supposing that water would not be very far, I rode over to the right side of the river and found a fine lagoon, which was however drying up; here we encamped and satisfied our thirst and hunger. Mr. Isaacs shot a black Ibis. As we were riding along we saw smoke of the natives to the south, and this smoke seemed to hang down from a small cloud which dissolved and formed again several times. The direction of the river was S.E. as much as I could judge; for I was too tired to carry my compass constantly in my hand. Mr. Bunce found a yellow variety of the scrub Stenochilus, the red variety of which is also common. Perry had the shivers last night, and Wommai is not well; could the cormorant have anything to do with it? Perry is well again to-day. These long stages are extremely tiresome. Every one has taken advantage of the early camp to wash his shirt. The night was mild, but the wind shifting during the day la very chilly.

September the 7th.—My latitude at Mitchell's camp lagoon was 27 deg. 28 min. As I intended to go only to 27 deg. 30 min. I continued on the 6th along the river for about 4 miles; at 2 or 3 miles we found a fine waterhole in the bed, and thousands of Wood-swallows hovering about it. I now struck off to the eastward and soon entered into a scrubby country, which continued for 12 miles, when we were compelled to camp without water at a small scrub plain. We tied our horses up and started early this morning, continuing to the eastward. The scrub which was composed yesterday of Box with Vitex and Dodonaea with native Lemon and Goodia, of Bricklow and Casuarina, and of Cypresspine thickets, was principally composed of the latter with Stenochilus on a sandy soil; the Box openings became more frequent and Apple-tree and Moreton Bay ash appeared as we approached a creek with a fine large water-hole which runs W.N.W. by E.S.E. We saw again the burrows of the new animal in the red soil on which the Cypresspine grows, but its channels were not so deep, and there were many holes close together. Mr. Bunce shot yesterday male and female of Platycercus Gilberti, the yellowhead Philotis was also shot. We travelled about 6 miles to-day. Large heaps of the straw of the native millet were lying on the little scrub plain, the natives had no doubt made their harvest there. Mr. Isaacs shot a black Ibis on Mitchell's Lagoon, and we had it for yesterday's breakfast.

September the 7th, Evening.—After 2½ miles travelling to the east passing all along through a low Box country with frequent hollows; we arrived at the running river which we considered identical with the Smoky one of Mr. Bunce; its bed was sandy with many tea-trees and Watergum, but no Casuarina. We followed it up for about 7 miles, and passed three watercourses, two of them with waterholes appeared to be creeks, one perhaps the Lagoon river east of the Graftonridges. The low box-flats and hollows extended along the river, but farther off it seemed tolerably open, and we passed over a little plain. Myall was observed in scattered specimens and the Moreton Bay Ash and the Apple-tree make their appearance with the Water-box. Swainsonia is very abundant; two woodducks were shot.

September the 8th.—Mr. Bunce discovered this morning very old horse dung at the very place where we encamped. We continued to follow up the river, and had gone scarcely 3 miles, when dray tracks were observed they were very old and faint, and belonged to Mitchell's Expedition. Fresh horse tracks were seen coming down the River, and apparently turning up to the N.W., on Mitchell's track, 29th April, 1846. These horse tracks were observed all along our road, and at one place an L was cut into a small water gum tree with a black-fellow's tomahawk. We travelled about 8½ miles N.N.E., when a large creek joined from the northward (it was, gently running according to Mr. Isaacs) and the river now took an almost due easterly direction; we followed it for 8 miles farther E. by N.; the Water-box flats were very extensive; the flood-marks very high; the lagoons became more numerous, and a very large one was seen not long before camping, where the river took a northerly and even westerly bend; its bed was sandy or pebbly and sound; it was lined with Tea-tree, and the wider holes with reeds; they were teeming with ducks, which our sportsmen were not able to kill. It was a fine day, with a gentle easterly breeze; the country was, in general, closely wooded, but some patches were very open and promised fair to widen farther off the river; in some places the banks of the river were scrubby, one with Bricklow, mostly with Box.

saplings and Vitex. The Unio is still the only shell in the camps of the natives which seems very numerous; this makes me believe, that the Condamine has nothing to do with it, as it contains mostly Anodontas with thick black epidermis.

September the 9th.—The night mild—thermom, at sunrise, 42 deg. We came about 18 miles E.N.E., over a country very similar to that of yesterday. We passed some fine open patches but sandy soil, and Cyprespine and Moreton Bay ash. We crossed a creek from the northward, about 9 miles from the camp, and a second very large one about 15 miles; the Water-box flats and lateral hollows were like yesterday's, several chains of ponds. Towards the large creek the Myall became very abundant We passed, at about 12 miles, a tree marked H and another after having crossed the largest creek, the latter was in a very good sound country, however, still with the Moreton Bay ash. Wommai shot 5 ducks, and got 5 young black cormorants out of a nest, which was built on a branch overhanging the water. A very downy Plantago is very common; the onion-leaved Antherium likewise.

September the 10th.—The night was mild though clear; in the morning it became overcast, and when we started it began to rain, sometimes in heavy showers, with a light westerly movement in the clouds, and thunder. When we were encamped at about 4 o'clock, a heavy thunder-storm came on from the westward, and it was fortunate that we had succeeded in lighting a fire, around which we patiently waited for its termination, having rolled our blankets round us. The following night was overcast again with the exception of one clearing. In the morning of the 11th, it cleared up perfectly and became very fine. We had new moon the 9th Greenwich time. We crossed a small creek after about nine miles travelling, and a very large one with broad sandy bed; about 4 miles farther, the country was still closely wooded with very open, puffy, Moreton Bay ash and Cypresspine rises, patches of Bricklow and Vitex scrub. We went about 6 miles N. 70 deg. W. Wommai shot some ducks for breakfast.

September the 11th.—The river easted still more to-day than yesterday; we travelled about 18 miles E. by. N., and encamped a short distance off the river, at a little scrub creek; we crossed, in 9 miles, the Horse track river, which preserved its former character, and a fine creek containing large lagoons of water, which, no doubt, is the creek we had camped at in going out the night before we arrived at the Horse track river. Mr. Bunce and Wommai, who had been down the river when they were lost, stated, that opposite our camp a large lagoon existed near the river, covered with Pelicans and every description of water-fowl.

September the 12th.—The night was very dewy. We had last night 5 teal, and this morning 3 teal; one black duck and a wallobi; Wommai had shot 6 and 7 at one shot, but had lost five of them in riding along. We had not gone more than 3 miles east, when we came to the river; the country was scrubby with the exception of one or two fine puffy hills; the Bricklow scrub continued some way up the river, which, after its cessation, makes a great bend to the southward; Wommai and Bunce had camped the first night below this scrub. Up to the Sunday River the country is again timbered with Cypresspine, Moreton Bay ash, silver-leaved Ironbark; the underwood is a glaucous pinnate-leaved Acacia; the soil is puffy; water-box flats with gullies intervene between these detached stretches of open country. We crossed the Sunday River and Bunce's Creek, and camped about 3 miles higher up. The Emu-herb, a legumenous aromatic plant is plentiful, and our mules and horses enjoy it greatly, but it grows not on the puffy soil. The country which was burnt and burning when we went down, is now clothed with green grass, which looks particularly fresh after the rain of the 10th. We saw at first two, and afterwards one emu; Camden is too heavy for them. The creek has decreased greatly in size; it is rocky and its banks frequently perpendicular precipices; it cannot be the Condamine, but it must have something to do with Dogwood Creek or Bottle-tree Creek, as it is still running. I have forgotten to mention that we saw a great number of very large cockroach-like Orthopterous insects running over the ground, where the young grass did allow us to see the surface. They came out of their holes, no doubt, in consequence of the rain of the preceding day.

out of their holes, no doubt, in consequence of the rain of the preceding day. September the 13th.—We crossed the Smoky River and travelled about 11 miles east 15 deg, north. The first 3 miles were very open, some sound box country and puffy Cypresspine ridges. Here we entered into Bricklow and Casuarina scrub, and travelled in it for about 5-6 miles, when we came to a most beautiful open Box country, clothed with the rich green of young grass. Wommai gave chase to an old-man kangaroo, which Camden succeeded in keeping at bay until our gay sportsman shot him. His head was remarkably short and broad. An open Box-wood country on the hollow heads of little creeks particularly to the S.E. We had not continued more than 3 miles, when we met a large creek running strong S.-N. This is no doubt the river we left, having been joined by the two Emu creeks and by the small river next to them to the eastward. Diuvis maculata in blossom; its tubers have an agreeable though glutinous taste.

September the 14th.—The thermometer, at sunrise, 46 deg. The latitude by Altair 26 deg. 53 min. Last night we enjoyed one of the legs of the old man kangaroo, which stewed for about three hours gave us a most excellent soup, mixed with a little flour. This morning we had the other leg, leaving the tail and rump for to-morrow's breakfast, and the fore quarters for the dogs. We travelled about 12 miles 15 deg. N.; the first 3 miles were an open Box country limited by a belt of Dodonaes scrub. Having passed it, we entered upon most beautiful scrub-downs, with small tufts of Bricklow, and with some isolated Box-trees; the grass was all burnt and looked now fresh and green. To the left dense Bricklow-scrub extended, to the right Box with Dodonaes and Vitex underwood; we passed over at least 4 miles of the downs, when we came again upon fine open Box-country, which extended for 5 miles, our course was then intercepted by large creek, with high rocky ledges and running water. It formed a large pond in winding to the S.W., and to the east again. This pond was nearly 13—2 miles long, deep; but a rocky bed, now empty; went across about that distance from the bottom of the pond; we followed the creek until we found a crossing-place, when we passed over to its left side. One mile before this crossing-place 3 trees, were marked with B, one of them was cut into the wood, the bark being removed. At the crossing, Wommai shot two Teals and one Blackduck, and observed cattle tracks. We followed the creek for about 3 miles higher up. Its banks were rather scrubby, with limited patches of good country; the opposite (right) side looked better. The question was what creek it was, and I am inclined to believe that it is Dogwood Creek. With this supposition my reckoning and several other circumstances agree. The flood marks are not so high as they were when we left the Condamine; the Anadonta is wanting, the creek is running and neither Charly's Creek nor the Condamine was; the Acacia, with glaucous phyllodia is very frequent; it was not so frequent at the Condamine. But the country has entirely changed, it is for the most part sound and Myall is common. It gets very cloudy, and a cold wind blew during the whole day from the eastward. The creek and the Box forest were full of horse-tracks as If by gentlemen examining the country.

NATIONAL DEBT.

A late Parliamentary paper has been published, giving an account of the growth of the National Debt. The nucleus was from wars in the time of Charles II.,—the insignificant sum of £664,263. Then the wars at the accession of William III., added £2,300,000; war with France, in 1627, £11,000,000 more; war of the Spanish Succession, 1702, £20,000,000; war with Spain, 1718, £20,000,000; war of the Austrian Succession, 1748, £29,000,000; Seven Years' war, 1754–63, £55,000,000; American war, £11,000,000; and next the war with France, 1794–1815, £620,000,000. To that has been added for the Russian War of 1854, about £50,000,000. Part of all this has been paid, so that the nation now only owes the round sum of £305,000,000.

Anstralian Colonies.

The Expense of the Colonies to Great Britain is a subject upon which some minds delight to expatiate—We have had no statistics to rely upon later than those of 1857. In that year they cost the parent country as follows:—Gibraltar, £423,589; Malta, £444,722; the Cape of Good Hope, £682,015; Mauritius, £74,881; Bermuda, £158,061; St. Helena, £62,640; Heligoland, £1274; the Ionian Islands, £199,470; the Falklands, £6523; Hongkong, £303,735; Jamaica, £195,711; the Bahamas, £52,045; Honduras, £33,802; West Indies, £305,981; Canada, £236,484; Nova Scotia, £164,603; New Brunswick, £9430; Prince Edward's Island, £1500; Newfoundland, £20,114; Vancouver's Island, £210; the West Coast of Africa, £126,039; Ceylon, £119,279; Labaun, £12,445; North Australia, £3666; West Australia, £94,769; South Australia, £940; Victoria, £44,113; New South Wales, £59,646; Tasmania, £96,936; and New Zealand, £112,995.

There is however another side to the question, and that is the commercial value of these said Colonies to England.

The total exports of Great Britain in 1857 were valued at £122,155,237; of which amount £85,039,990 represent exports to foreign countries, and £37,115,247, exports to the colonies. It may be interesting to our commercial readers to see how this latter amount is made up.

It is with Australia however that we are most interested, and the growth of the British export trade to these shores gradually increasing in value, though slow at first, with the enormous additions made in the years of 1853 and 4, forms a subject of pride and satisfaction and tends to bind closer together the intimate connection between the parent country and her offspring, the Australian colonies—The following is the result of the last fifteen years:—

Tasmania.

TASMANIA, OR VAN DIEMANS LAND.

The first discovery of this Island was by the Dutch Navigator Abel Jansen Tasman, who gave it the name of Van Diemans Land, in honour of the Governor of the East Indies; but the name of Tasmania, in honour of the discoverer is indiscriminately used. It was in 1803 the first attempts at Settlement were made and now in 1859 the population is estimated at 85,000. The physical aspect of the Country is mountainous. It abounds in Rivers, on the principal one the Derwent, is situated the Capital Hobart Town. Many of the Mountains are of great heighth, that of Valentines Peak being 6000 feet above the level of the sea, and visible at a distance of 60 miles.

The Legislative Council and House of Assembly are elective. The only qualification of members being, that they must be thirty years of age. Five members, one third of the Council retire every third year, but are eligible for re-election. The members of the House of Assembly are elected every five years. In both elections the ballot is used, and the nomination day with movers and seconders done away with, the returning Officer merely announcing the candidates names.

The following statistics are for the year 1857:—Imports, £1,271,087. Exports, £1,354,655. Revenue, £423,973. Expenditure, £395,633.

SOUTH AUSTRALIA.

This Colony was founded on the Wakefield principle, and for some time seemed to disappoint the expectation of its projectors. It has, however, after passing through many vicissitudes, attained an important position among the Australian Colonies. Captain Hindmarsh, the first Governor arrived at the close of 1836, and the Colony was proclaimed on the 28th December, of that same year. He was succeeded by Colonel Gawler, who arrived on the 12th October, 1838. Captain Grey, the third Governor arrived 10th May, 1841, and his successor Major Robe 14th October, 1845. Sir Henry Young, the next Governor arrived on 1st August, 1848, and the present Sir Richard Graves Macdonell, arrived 7th June, 1858.

Since it was founded it has steadily progressed in population, value, and importance to the present time, while the navigation of the Murray tends still further to advance its prosperity. It contains an area of 300,000 square miles. The administration consists of the Governor, Legislative Council, and Assembly, these two houses being elective.

New Zealand.

NEW ZEALAND.

New Zealand situated between 34 and 47 degrees Latitude S. and 166 and 179 degrees Longitude E. is divided into the Settlements or Colonies of Auckland, Wellington, Nelson, Taranaki or New Plymouth, Otago, and Canterbury; the united area of which is 120,000 square miles. According to the late census, the European population in New Zealand, on the 31st December 1858, amounted to 61,199; of whom there were in Auckland, 18, 177; in New Plymouth, 2,650; in Wellington, 11,728; in Hawke's Bay, 1,514; in Nelson, 9,272; in Canterbury, 8,967; in Otago. 6,944; in Stewart's Island, 51; and Military, 1,896. The Natives are presumed to be about 40,000. Revenue, 1857, £226,903. Expenditure, £240,613; Imports, £301,639; Exports, £289,578.

Auckland is the chief settlement and seat of Government. A Governor is appointed by the Queen, and each of the provinces are governed by a superintendent and Provincial Council over each, elected by the local residents.

The whole colony of New Zealand is governed by the General Assembly, consistent of the colony of New Zealand is governed by the General Assembly consistent by the colony of the ing of the Governor, the Legislative Council, the members of which are appointed by the Crown for life, and the House of Representatives which is Elected by the people. But each Province has besides a separate Government, consisting of a Superintendent and Provincial Council, both elected by the people. The Electoral qualification is very low.

The soil generally is rich and fertile, and in many places gives indications of being rich in minerals. The latest statistics we have been able to obtain, are of 1856. being rich in minerals. The latest statistics we have been able to obtain, are or above When the total quantity of land under cultivation in the six provinces amounted to 114,570 acres. More than half of this was in Auckland. Wellington and Nelson had each about 14,000 acres under crop; New Plymouth, 9000; Canterbury, 8000; and Otago, 5000. The greater portion of cultivated land—to the extent of 80,000 acres—is occupied with sown grass, and this especially the case in Auckland. Wheat is the crop next in favour, and potatoes and oats come next. The quantity of fenced land is not fully stated, but it would not seem to be double the cultivated area, except in Canterbury. No statistics are given of the total quantity of land sold, as that it is not nossible to trace how far land nurchases have been carried on in advance that it is not possible to trace how far land purchases have been carried on in advance of actual cultivation.

The returns of live stock show that in 1856 there were 9243 horses, 91,928 head of cattle, and 990,988 sheep, besides mules, asses, goats, and pigs. Auckland possesses the most cattle, but Nelson the most sheep. Canterbury, too, in this latter respect, exceeds Wellington, and even Otago surpasses Auckland. Sheep farming has prospered greatly of late in the southern provinces, and there is plenty of room yet for its indefinite increase.

The cost of living, so far as indicated by the retail prices of those articles of consumption produced in the colony, cannot be very much below what it is in Australia. Meat averages about sixpence a pound-rising occasionally to tenpence, and falling sometimes to 4dd. Bread is about fourpence a pound. Fresh butter about sixteen pence, and milk about sixpence a quart. There are great variations in the different years in the price of these essential articles of domestic consumption. Half the revenue of the colony is drawn from the province of Auckland.—Wellington, Nelson, and Canterbury contribute in pretty nearly equal proportions, and each to about half the amount of Auckland. The customs, of course, furnish nearly the whole of the ordinary revenue, the other items being quite incidental. The amount levied by depasturing licences and assessment on stock is most heavy in Canterbury, where in 1856 it was no less than £6800. In none of the other provinces did this tax yield so much as a thousand pounds.

AUCKLAND.

This Province dates from 29th January, 1840, when Governor Hossow arrived. The town is situated on the west side of the Northern Island, and possesses a population of 8000, or about one half of the whole district. The exports of this province have steadily increased; they consist chiefly of wool, kaurie gum, flax, copper ore, gold, timber, wheat, and potatoes. By the last statistics we have been able to obtain, there were 18,000 acres under crop.

WELLINGTON.

This was the earliest settlement in New Zealand, founded 22nd January, 1840; it is in the Northern Island, the harbour of Port Nicholson, on which the town is situated is very fine. The European Population of the district is 11000, of which 3700 reside in the town. Two pretty smart shocks of Earthquakes have been felt in this province. Revenue in 1857, £38,000; Expenditure, £12,000. It appears from a return presented at the last meeting of the Chamber of Commerce, that the value of imports at the port of Wellington in 1857 amounted to £243,609, and in the year following to £267,628, showing an increase of £24,019, or nearly 10 per cent.;

NELSON.

This province on the north of the Middle Island was settled lat February, 1842, and in 1857, the population was estimated at 7000, about 2000 of which are in the town, the Revenue being £32,933. The climate is considered the most genial of all the New Zealand provinces. Gold having been discovered in this province, we extract from the Nelson Examiner of the 28th August, 1858, the following paragraph relative thereto. It appears by a return published in the General Government Gosette, of August 6th, that the quantity of gold exported during the quarter ended on the 30th June last, was 4097 oz. 15 dwt. 4 gr., the estimated value of which was £15,878 16s. 10d.; and the quantity exported from 5th April, 1857, to 31st March 1858, was estimated at 14,099 oz. 8 dwt. 15 grs., and valued at £54,635 5s. 4d.; making at total of £70,514 2s. 2d., besides a considerable quantity exported privately, the amount of which it is impossible to ascertain. We regret we have had no recent statistics from this province.

CANTERBURY.

This Province occupies the centre of the Middle Island of New Zealand; is bounded on the North by the Province of Nelson, and the South by that of Otago, and lies between the parallels of 43° and 45° of South latitude. It contains about 12,000,000 acres, of which one-fourth is known to be good available land, while the rest is still unexplored, 25,000 ares are reported as fenced in, March, 1857. It was founded in December, 1850, and at the last census population is stated at 6,000, one half of whom are residents in the towns of Christchurch, Lyttleton, Kaispoi, and Akaros. Chief Port, Lyttleton; Capital, Christchurch; Exports, about £80,000; Revenue, no official returns have reached us, but we believe it exceeds the expenditure by about £3,000.

The Otago Colonist says, in summarising so much of the official statistics of the Province, for the year ended 31st December, 1857, as relates to Agriculture and Stock:—The highest average return of wheat per acre was, in the northern district last year, 39 bushels; the general average of the province being 35. This year, the return shows 47, and 35½. Of oats, the highest district average return last year was 44, the general average being 35½; this year, they are 42 and 36½. Last year the average return of potatoes was 7; this year it is 7½ tons per acre. Altogether, our farms have not been idle; the total number of acres under crop being 1309 more than last year, showing the increase of 25 per cent. Of land in fallow, the increase is three hundred acres, and of land fenced in 4629 acres. The total value of agricultural produce raised this year—assuming the return of crop to turn out correct—will be close upon £30,000, estimating it at the lowest market rates at Dunedin. If we add to this the value of the wool clip, estimated at about £40,000, we have a total of 120,000 for the year. We now turn to the live stock, which we regret to observe do not seem to increase in the same ratio as does cultivated land. Last year the return showed 15,881 head of cattle; this year there are only 168 additional. If this is correct, the price of butchers' meat is not likely to fall in a hurry. The number of sheep this year 161,681, as against 129,908 of the previous year. Since the return was made up there have been six cargoes imported, numbering about as many thousand breeding stock; and we understand that there are several thousand now on the way overland from Nelson; so that next year we may hope to see the return of sheep figuring much larger. The minimum number that must needs be imported, in order to stock the runs now applied for, is somewhat over thirty thousand.

POLYNESIA.

Although the Islands of the Pacific Ocean are not under the sovereignty of England, yet there are so many British subjects residing on them and so associated with this colony both as regards missionary operations and an increasing commerce—that we deem some notice of them a fitting subject for this work. The Polynesian Islands are described by Malte Brun as the "Magnificent fragments of a former world scattered over the mighty ocean" and another eminent geographer characterizes them as the "Debris of an immense portion of the habitable hemisphere which has been overwhelmed by the waves of the ocean." Whatever their origin may have been, they possess peculiar interest to us, not only as pourtraying in so short a period of time, the effects of the benign influence of Christianity over savage cannibalism; but the luxuriance of vegetation, the deliciousness of climate, the tranquil ocean, and large population they possess, point them out as the marts for commercial enterprise, while their situation as midway between this Colony and America make them convenient calling places when steam shall have connected us with these large continents—Already they are resorted to by numerous whalers, and several large stores are already established on some of the most important of them.

In this account of the Islands we have endeavoured to supply to the best of our ability as much information regarding them as the nature of this work would admit, as well as the names of such English residents as we have had the opportunity of acquiring. In all these results we are perfectly aware that the information is meagre, but we hope it may reach the eye of some of the missionaries and British residents there, and we trust that in inviting them to supply us with anything additional they may conceive interesting and useful, as well as correcting any errors we may have inadvertently fallen into, they will respond to the appeal and lend their assistance in compiling this short directory and gazetteer, which while it will be useful to others will we doubt not also be found useful to themselves.

GEORGIAN ISLANDS OR TAHITIAN GROUP.

This Group between 17° 2′ 23″ and 17° 58′ S. Latitude, and 150° 40′ and 148° 9′ 55″ W. Longitude, consists of five principal islands—Tahiti, Tapamanos, Eimeo or Aimeo, Tetuaroa, and Matia—the first of these being the principal one and which lends its name to the rest. The population of the whole is estimated at about 7000. The Americans carry on a large trade with these islands. In 1854 thirty whalers arrived at Tahitian harbours, twenty-five of which were American. In 1840 we are informed, the produce of sugar amounted to 127 tons, and of cocoa nut oil 75 tons—these however have decreased, the possession of these islands by the French Government having produced such sullen indolence and apathy, that all motive for exertion seems to have been died within them. These islands were the first that were attempted to be Christianized, and the missionaries laboured many years ere they saw any fruit of their labours. The wars in which the natives were frequently engaged compelled the missionaries at different times to fice for their lives, several came to Sydney, and many of their desegndants are to be met with amongst our Polynesia.

Australian colonists. There are only two missionaries of the London Missionary Society connected with these islands at the present time—The Rev. William Howe and the Rev. David Darling, the latter now in Sydney. The Scriptures with various useful publications have been translated into the Tahitian language. The Roman Catholics have also French Missionaries on these islands.

THE FIJIS.

The Fijian Archipelago is considered the finest of all the Polynesian groups. Long the abodes of every species of savage cruelty, these Islands have under the blessing of God upon the labours of the Wesleyan Mission have marvellously transformed. Thousands who were once Pagan Cannibals are now professed Christians, more or less instructed in and obedient to the precepts of that holy religion, and even where is has not yet penetrated, its effects are felt and tactity acknowledged. The Roman Catholics have also a mission in these Islands, and have been zealous in putting down the debasing cannibalism and cruelties so common amongst them. The Islands lie between 15-30 and 19-30 S. lat., and 177 E. and 178 W. long.; 300 miles N.C. from Tongataboo and 1800 miles N.E. from Sydney, and are of volcanic origin; the scenery is very beautiful and the vegetation so rich that flowering plants and shrubs exist in such numbers and of such variety as to defy description. They are also well watered. In the two largest Islands Viti Levu and Vanua Levu, there are considerable rivers navigable for boast and small vessels for some distance. At the western extremity of the latter island Bua Bay receives the waters of two or three rivers of this class, one of which is 200 feet wide near its mouth. For the last forty years American and English vessels have for trading purposes visited the Fijia, and even before 1809 a brisk traffic in Sandalwood was carried on with China, in vessels of considerable burthen belonging to New South Wales.

The sovereignty of these islands has been offered to the British Government, and is still under consideration. At a recent meeting in London for the purpose of urging the Government to accept the offer, it was stated that the imports from September 1857, to September 1858, were in American vessels only about £20,000. A cotton bearing tree is indigenous, and Mr. Pritchard, the Consul at these islands, thinks that as much as 1800lbs might be gathered from what is growing wild on the islands. On the largest island there are over five millions of acres fit for cultivation. The principal imports are Manchester goods, guns, powder, &c., and the chief exports are cooca nut oil, beche-de-lamer and Tortoiseshell.

The following is the distribution of the Wesleyan Missionaries, Merchants, and others in these islands:—

Lakemba—Revs. William Fletcher, B.A., and Frederick Laugham. Ovalau—Revs. Joseph Waterhouse, and John S. Fordham

Mr. Binnal and Mr. Binner, Merchants. J. B. Williams, American Consul.

— Bensusan, Hawaian Consul.

Rewa—Revs. William Moore, S. H. Royce, Thomas Baker, and John Polglase. Bua—Revs. William Wilson, and Charles J. Baird. Rotumah—Rev. Jesse Cary.

Sixty-two chapels have been built during the year, many of them in the very bes style of Fijian architecture—£122 has been remitted to the British and Foreign Bible Society from the sale of Soriptures, and £31 9s. had been realized from the sale of books from the Mission Press. As a proof of what is effected in literature, it may be mentioned that last year the following work was passed through their hands—9000 Catechisms of 20 pages; 10,000 Hymn Books of 20 pages; 10,000 Alphabets of 4 pages; 3000 Almanacs, 1859, of 4 pages, and 1800 Testaments, previously printed, had been folded.

HERVEY ISLANDS.

This group lies S. E. from Samoa, due E. from Tongatabu and about 500 miles west from the Society Islands. The language of the inhabitants resembles that of Tahiti, from whom tradition asserts them to have sprung. The population is about 11,000, all christianised through the efforts of the London Missionary Society. The following is the distribution of the Missionaries on the Islands.

Rarotonga—Reverends A. Buzacott and George Gill.

Mangaia—Reverend W. Wyatt Gill.

Aitutaki—Reverend H. Royle

Altogether there are upwards of 500 Church members and 500 candidates, children attending school 812. Contributions raised for the Society £55.

LOYALTY ISLANDS.

Of this group Maré is the only one that contains any European residents. That Island is situated 21° ½ South latitude, and nearly 168° East longitude; its length is about 20 miles, and breadth nearly the same, and is about 30 miles distant from New Caledonia. The inhabitants are estimated at about 3000, one-third of which have embraced Christianity, but the remainder are still savage cannibals. They are a desperate and energetic race, but when brought under Christian instructions when the same and the same are a desperate and energetic race, but when brought under Christian instructed their progress is very pleasing. A young girl, recently in Sydney, afforded an interesting example of the fruit of missionary labour,—she not only read and wrote English well, but could sew, knit, &c., and performed the duties of a nurse-girl with apparent trust and zeal. Two Missionaries, from the London Missionary Society were located here in 1854; and although formerly many ships' crews have been murdered by the natives, vessels may now call with safety. The harbour is to the north-west, which bay is inhabited by the Christian party.

The natives are energetic and make able seamen, they make a rope which they sell to vessels, and firewood can be well supplied.

Yam is the principal production of the Island. Whales are very numerous in this bay and near the Island.

Missionaries-Rev. J. Jones and Rev. -

THE FRIENDLY ISLANDS OR TONGESE ARCHIPELAGO.

These islands lie in the South Western Pacific Ocean, the two southern portions (Tonga and Habai) were originally discovered by the Dutch in 1643, and rediscovered by Cook, 130 years afterwards. They are composed principally of three separate groups—Tongatabu and its adjacent islands—Haabai Group, and the Vavau or Haafaluhao Group. The population is estimated at upwards of 20,000. The Wesleyans have important Missions on these islands which have been eminently successful, and though the larguage would support totally different from that In a wesieyans have important missions on these islands which have been eminently successful, and though the language would appear totally different from that of the other Polynesian islands, they have not only reduced it to a regular system but translated the Scriptures into this tongue besides printing these, vocabularies and other books for the instruction of the people. The alphabet consists of seventeen letters. The following is the distribution of the Missionaries and other English residents.

residents.—

Tongatabu.—Missionaries—Revs. John Thomas, John Whewell, George Lee, Richard W. Orton, with one native Missionary. Merchants—Messrs. J. C. Cocker, J. Reid, J. Knowlee, L. Hartshorne. Hawiian Consul—J. Blake.

Haabsi.—Revs. John Vercoe, W. G. R. Stephenson, and three native Missionaries.

Vacan.—Missionaries—Revs. Thomas Adams, and William Hill, with two native Missionaries. Merchants—D. J. Moss, J. Needham.

NAVIGATORS, or SAMOAN ISLANDS.

These Islands lie between lat. 13-30° S.; long. 187 and 192° E., or about 300 miles N.W. from Longs, are divided into two groups, the Eastern and Western. The Natives are handsome and well made, and their language bears considerable The Natives are handsome and well made, and their language bears considerable affinity to the Tongese, though perhaps more copious and refined. Their alphabet consists of 14 letters, and it has been remarked that this is the only branch of the Malayo Polynesian Family where the sound of the letter S. is heard. The population has been variously estimated, though is would appear 50,000 is the nearest approximation. The products of these islands are much the same as the other Polynesian Groups, but of their capabilities of production it is impossible to calculate the extent. All the products of the West Indies could be equally well raised in these islands, while there are many others to which the West Indies are strangers.

The London Missionary Society have several Missionaries at these islands, and the result of their labours is gratifying in the extreme. Having no very recent intelligence it is impossible to give any exact returns, but the following it is thought is tolerably correct—Members of the Church, 1500; Candidates, 2000; Scholars, 2200; amount subscribed, £305. The following is the distribution of the Missionaries and other British residents ;-

Savaii .- Revs. Henry Nisbet, and George Pratt.

Opolu-Apia is the Port of this Island, It is an excellent harbour, two rivers run into it, and first rate water is to be had at all seasons. The houses are mostly built of wood, but the Roman Catholic Missionaries have a very handsome chapel built of coral, sawn out of the solid blocks. The usual attendants of the Anglo Saxon March of civilization may here be met with in the shape of public-houses in any quantity-there is also a bowling saloon and a billiard table.

Opolu.—Missionaries—Revs. A. W. Murray, W. Harbutt, George Drummond, George Stallworthy, Charles Hardie, George Turner. Missionary Printer—Samuel Ella. Merchants—Messrs. Hort Brothers, Deval and Barry, Unshelm, Macfarlane, Bowden, (Auctioneer.) English Consul—J. C. Williams. American Consul—J. C. Denckson. Hawaiian Consul—Dr. De Boos.

Tutuila.—Rev. Thomas Powell.

Samoa—Rev. M. Dyson and one Native Assistant Missionary. Nina Foon and Nina Tobatabu have each one Native Missionary.

The Wesleyans have also Missions on these Islands, but care is taken that neither the London Society nor their Missions interfere with one another. Wesleyans have 80 Local Preachers and 604 Members.

SOCIETY ISLES.

There are a cluster of four or five Islands with their islets lying about 120 miles W.N.W. from Tahiti. The Natives are closely allied to the Tahitians. London Missionary Society have stations at each of the large islands, distributed as follows :-

Hughine .- Rev. Charles Barff.

Raiatea.—Rev. Alexander Chisholm. Tahaa.—Rev. John Barif.

The number of Church Members according to the last statistics we have been able to obtain are 981, and Candidates 109, Children attending School 554.

REMITTANCES TO THE TREASURY.

The Treasury, New South Wales, 8th October, 1857.

The Honorable The Secretary for Finance and Trade directs it to be notified, that Remittances forwarded from the Country to this Office, must, in future, be posted at such time as will admit of their delivery at the Treasury, by the usual course of post, on or before the date upon which the amounts may become due to the Government.

HENRY LANE.

Secretary to the Treasury.

SCALE OF FEES.

The following is a scale of the fees charged at the Treasury, viz. Publicans' General Licenses, £30 per annum, charged proportionately, night no 10 n in full night billiard 10 Auctioneers' General Licenses £15 per annum, charged proportionately, district Packet 99 Confectioners' Distillation (for purpose of fortifying wine) £1 0 per annum. Fees on Deeds of Grant of Land, 50 acres 0 50 to 300 - 5 1 10 300 to 640 640 and above which must be paid when completing the purchase of the land. All title deeds are delivered at the office of the Surveyor-General.

By Her Majesty's Orders in Council, and the regulations issued thereunder, it is provided that if Lessees of Crown Lands fail to pay their rents within the period allowed, their lesses shall be forfeited. The whole responsibility, as to the payment of his rent in due time, devolves upon the lessee, and the consequence of omission on his part is the loss of his lease, or reversal of forfeiture on payment of fine.

In accordance with the principle of the regulations referred to, ledger accounts are kept in this office with the several lots of land under lease, but not personal accounts with the several leases, such as would show the total amount of the rents due by those who have more than one holding.

It does, however, frequently happen that the agents of lessees, and even lessees themselves, come to pay rents without knowing what are due, and that they ask from the clerks in this office for information with which they ought to have been themselves provided; although it may be scarcely right that their time should be so taken up, the clerks are instructed to accommodate enquirers, by collecting for them the information sought, but should such information be imperfectly given in any case—should any run or portion of land be omitted, the lessee's responsibility for the due payment of the rent of the land omitted will not be thereby affected, and he will incur the penalty of forfeiture should the payment not be made.

(The principle of this notice applies to all payments to be made to the Government.)

ROYAL BRANCH MINT.

Deputy-Master of the Royal Mint, and Chief Officer of the Branch at Sydney—Captain Edward Wolstenholme Ward, Royal Engineers Superintendent of the Bullion Office—Charles Elouis Superintendent of the Coining Department—Joseph Trickett First Clerk in the Bullion Office—Robert Hunt Registrar and Accountant—Elliott Arthur Knipe Assayers-Francis Bowyer Miller and Adolph Leibius, N.D.

The following are the Regulations for the receipt and issue of gold at the Sydney Branch of the Royal Mint:-

- I. Importation of gold dust or gold bullion for coinage, from 12 ounces upwards, will be receivable at the Mint daily (Saturdays and holidays excepted), between the hours of 11 a.m. and 3 p.m., on the following terms:-
 - I. Importations from one thousand ounces standard upwards, subject to a charge of three-quarters per cent. for converting the same into
 - 2. Importations below this amount will be coined at a charge of 1 per cent.
 - 3. The value of the bullion will be determined on the reports of the Mint Assayers.
 - Importations will be melted, if preferred, in the presence of the importer. The importer will also be furnished, on demand, with a clip for assay, from his own ignot, as a check on the reports of the Mint Assavers.
 - 5. The Mint will issue, if required, gold bullion in bars or ingots, at £3 17s. 101d. the standard ounce.
 - 6. The Mint will be prepared to afford accommodation, to a limited extent, to parties requiring early payment for the bullion, at an advance of one-fourth per cent. on the above charges. Payment in such cases will be made within two days of delivery at the Mint.

II. The following descriptions of bullion are not admissible within the Mint, viz.:—Articles of plate, jewellery, or wrought gold (coins excepted); bullion containing mercury or metals foreign to the gold-producing districts of Australasia, and destructive to the malleability of bullion; bullion that has been tampered with in any way.

Bullion which can be recognised before melting as objectionable on the above grounds, will not be received; but should any after melting prove unfit for coinage for the reasons enumerated, it will be returned to the importer, subject to a charge of six-pence per ounce, on the gross weight of the importation.

MINT CHARGES.

The Treasury, New South Wales. 24th October, 1859.

A Reduction of the present "Mint Charges," equivalent to three-eighths per cent. of the standard value of the importation, will be made in respect to gold—the produce of any portion of the British Territory of Australasis not included in New South Wales—imported to the Mint on and after the first day of November next, under the conditions prescribed in the fourth clause of the Act of Council, 20th Victoria, No. 17, granting a duty on gold.

E. C. WEEKES.

The Treasury, New South Wales, 23rd April, 1857

The following Regulations, referring to the transmission of gold dust or cash by Escort to and from the Mint, to take effect from 1st May, 1857, are published for general information:-

1. Gold intended to be transmitted to Sydney by Escort should be deposited with the Gold Commissioner or Receiver of the District, who must be informed of the name of the consignee or person in Sydney to whom the gold is to be delivered.

2. If the gold is to be transmitted for conversion into coin, or for purchase at the Mint, it must be consigned to "the care of the Deputy-Master," and the Gold Commissioner or Receiver must be informed if the "proceeds are required without delay," or "after the dust has been converted into coin"; also, how they are to be disposed of.

The proceeds of gold, consigned to the "care of the Deputy-Master," will be remitted by Escort, for delivery through a Commissioner or

Receiver, or paid into any Bank in Sydney, or at the Mint to any Agent, as may be directed on the face of the Commissioner's or Receiver's Receipt.

4. The Commissioner or Receiver will enter on the face of the Receipt, which he will give to the depositor, as well as on the butt of the Receipt, which he will retain, the depositor's wish in full, and he will require the signature of the depositor to the butt of the Receipt.

5. When the proceeds of gold are remitted by Escort for delivery through a Commissioner or Receiver, a "Delivery Ticket" will be for-warded to the Consignee (if his address be known), on the presentation of which he will receive the parcel consigned to him.

6. Every person consigning gold to the "care of the Deputy-Master," with a request that the proceeds may be remitted by Escort, should be careful to forward the Commissioner's or Receiver's Receipt, and to communicate his address or usual place of residence, in order that the "Delivery Ticket" may be forwarded to him direct.

7. Gold Commissioners or Receivers will not deliver up the proceeds of Gold except to the Depositor of the Gold, or his Endorsee, in exchange for the "Delivery Ticket."

8. The proceeds of Gold consigned to "the care of the Deputy Master" will be disposed of as directed on the Commissioner's or Receiver's Receipt. Gold Dust or Cash consigned to the Mint for other persons will be delivered in exchange for the receipt to the bearer of it Any Gold Dust not called for within seven days after receipt at the Mint will be paid for in cash at the Mint price.

9. It must be understood that under no circumstances will the Government be responsible for loss.

STUART A. DONALDSON.

ESCORT CHARGES.

24th July, 1857.

With reference to the second paragraph of the Treasury Notice of the 23rd April last, promulgated in the Government Gazette of 24th April: Notice is hereby given, that after this date all Gold consigned to the "care of the Deputy Master of the Mint," of which "the proceeds are required without delay," and all such proceeds transmitted by Escort will be conveyed free of Escort charges.

STUART A. DONALDSON.

As regards this Notice, it must be understood that the proceeds of Gold consigned as above can, as hitherto, be paid into any Bank in Sydney, or at the Mint to any Agent as may be directed on the face of the Commissioner's Receipt, without being subject to Escort charges.

Registration of Births and Deaths in New South Wales.

By the Act of Legislative Council, 19 Vict., No. 34, for the Registration of Births, Deaths, and Marriages, occurring in New South Wales.

The Father or Mother of any Child born in New South Wales, is required to give notice within sixty days after the Birth, to the Registrar of the District (under a penalty of £10), and to furnish the particulars shewn

If 60 days have elapsed, a solemn declaration of the facts is required to be made, and no registry can be made after 6 months, of any Child born in the colony.

All Deaths should be Registered by the Distrist Registrar prior to interment, in order that he might give the necessary Certificate for Burial, and all Parents, Householders, or other qualified informants, who refuse or neglect to give the required information as shown below, to the Registrar of this District within thirty days are liable to a renalty of $210.

this District, within thirty days, are liable to a penalty of £10.

Any Undertaker, or other person, disposing of any Dead Body, without the District Registrar's, Coroner's, or Mazistrate's Certificate, or without giving due notice of the same to the District Registrar, is liable to a penalty of £10.

As every inhabitant in the colony may, at some time or other, be interested in knowing the precise time of some Birth or Death, and as a complete system of Registration will prevent much litigation in future years, and otherwise protect individual rights of property, besides throwing light on many social questions, as to duration of life among children and the upgrown population, to the increase of Statistical Science and the general advantage of the inhabitants of New South Wales, it is earnestly hoped that Clergymen, Medical men, and others, will cordially co-operate in the endeavours now made to carry out the work of Registration for the public

Particulars required in each case of a Birth, to be furnished by Parents to the District Registrar.

Superintendent—Francis Campbell, M.D., M.A., M.R.C.S., Edin, Medical Assistant—Edward Wardley, M.R.C.S., London Steward—E. C. Corner Matron—Mrs. Manson.

The Asylum is open to the public every day of the week, except Saturday and Sunday. But persons visiting the establishment for the special purpose of seeing their friends or relations under treatment there can be admitted only on Monday, Tuesday, and Wednesday, between the hours of 10 a.m. and 3 p.m.

All applications for the admission of patients into this Asylum, should be made to the Governor-General in the following form and accompanied with the Medical certificate below, which must have the written approval of one of the Judges of the Supreme Court.

(Admission of Insane persons into the Lunatic Asylum.

The attention of persons applying for the admission into the Lunatic Asylum of persons of unsound mind, under the 11th section of the Act 7 Victoria, No. 14, is requested to the provision contained in the Act 13 Victoria, No. 3, that in cases where the insane person has no relative or guardian in the Colony, or none accessible without inconvenient delay, any person or society under whose protection and care such insane person shall actually be, shall be deemed the guardian for the purposes of the first-mentioned enactment.

- 2. Every application of the above description must be from one of the relatives or guardians of the lunatic, in the form annexed, which must be sanctioned by one of the Judges of the Supreme Court. For this purpose the application must be taken (or sent) to the Prothonotary of the Court, or one of the Judge's Clerks.
- 3. A certificate must be attached to the petition, in the form hereto annexed, signed by two legally qualified Medical Practitioners, stating that they have examined the person, and found him or her to be of unsound mind, and that they consider such person will be benefitted by treatment in the Lunatic Asylum.
- 4. In all applications of this nature, the relationship in which the applicant stands to the lunatic must be stated; but, in cases where the lunatic has no accessible relative or guardian, the application may proceed from the Principal Officer of any public Charity, or the Gaoler, or other Person, (master or friend,) under whose actual protection and care the lunatic is:—stating the fact as the case may be.
- 5. The application when sanctioned by one of the Judges, is to be, forwarded to the Colonial Secretary.
- 6. The charge for the maintenance in the Lunatic Asylum of a lunatic, male or female, is two shillings and two-pence per diem; and, except in the case of a pauper, the person seeking the lunatic's admission, will be required to furnish to the Visiting Justice of the Lunatic Asylum, an engagement from two responsible persons for the regular payment of this sum.
- 7. If the application be for the admission of the lunatic as a pauper, a certificate will be required from some respectable person, known to the Government, to the effect not only that such lunatic is without funds, but is also without friends who can reasonably be expected to maintain such lunatic.

CHARLES COWPER.

(Form of Petition to His Excellency the Governor.)

To His Excellency Sir W. T. Denison, Knight, Captain-General and Governor-in-Chief in and over Her Majesty's Territory of New South Wales, &c., &c., &c.

The Petition of (G. H.) of (state residence and trade or calling.)

Respectfully showeth that (A. B.,) of (state residence, and trade or calling,) has been examined and found to be of unsound mind, as will appear by the annexed certificate; and that your petitioner who is the (Father, or other relative or guardian) of the said (A.B.,) is desirous of procuring (his or her) admission into the Lunatic Asylum, in order that (he or she) may there have such medical care and attendance as may be most likely to ensure (his or her) eventual recovery.

If the Petitioner be not a relative or guardian, say, instead of the words "who is the father, &c.," as follows:—"who has the actual protection and care of the said A. B., and is therefore (his or her) guardian, under the 13 Victoria, No. 3, sec. 2, is desirous," &c.

(Add any circumstance requiring explanation, and whether the insane person is proposed to be maintained by the petitioner or by the public.)

Your petitioner therefore prays that your Excellency will be pleased to direct that the said (A. B.,) may be received into such Lunatic Asylum, as your Excellency may think fit to appoint.

Note.—If the insane person is sought to be admitted at the public cost

If (J. K.) of (state residence, &c.) do hereby certify, that, to the best of my knowledge and belief (A. B.) who is described in the foregoing petition, has not the means for paying for (his or her) maintenance in the Lunaria. Asylum, and that (he or she) has not any relative or friend who can be reasonably expected to maintain (him or her.)

(Signed)

If the application proceeds from a near relative, such as a husband, father, &c., the Certificate should be as follows:-

I, (J. K.) of (state residence &c.,) do hereby certify, that, to the best of my knowledge and belief, neither (G. H.) nor (A. B.) who are described in the foregoing petition, has the means of paying for the maintenance of (A.B.) in the Lunatic Asylum, and that (A.B.) has not any relative of friend who can be reasonably expected to maintain (him or her.) (J, K.)

(Form of Medical Certificate.)

We, the undersigned, being legally qualified Medical Practitioners, do hereby certify, that we have examined (A. B.) of (state residence, trade or calling, &c.,) and that we find (him or her, as the case may be,) to be of unsound mind, and a fit and proper object for reception into the Lunatic Asylum; and we further certify that in our opinion the said (A. B.,) would be benefited by the treatment in such Asylum.

His Excellency the Governor-General has been pleased to approve of the following Regulations respecting Lights to be carried by Steamers and Sailing Vessels, compiled by the Steam Navigation Board, in accordance with the 31st section of the Act of Council, 16 Victoria, No. 46.

E. C. WEEKES.

LIGHTS TO BE CARRIED AND REGULATIONS TO BE OBSERVED BY STEAM AND OTHER VESSELS, TO PREVENT COLLISION, &c.

By the New South Wales Steam Navigation Board, with the approval of His Excellency the Governor-General

By virtue of the power and authority vested in us by the Act of Council, 16 Victoria, No. 46, dated 28th of December, 1852, we hereby require and direct that the following Regulations be strictly observed:—

STEAM VESSELS.

All Steam Vessels (whether propelled by Paddles or Screws), shall within all Seas, Gulfs, Channels, Straits, Bays, Creeks, Roads, Roadsteads, Harbours, Havens, Ports, and Rivers, within the Colony of New South Wales, and under all circumstances, between sunset and sunrise, exhibit Lights of such description and in such manner, as is hereinafter mentioned, viz:—

A Bright White Light at the Foremast Head.

A Green Light on the starboard Side.

A Red Light on the Port Side.

- 1. The Mast Head Light is to be visible at a distance of at least five miles in the dark night, with a clear atmosphere; and the Lantern is to be so constructed as to show a uniform and unbroken light over an arc of the horizon of twenty points of the Compass, being ten points on each side of the Ship, viz—from right ahead to two points abaît the beam on either side.
- 2. The Green Light on the Starboard side is to be visible at a distance of at least two miles in a dark night, with a clear atmosphere; and the Lantarn is to be so constructed as to show a uniform and unbroken light over an arc of the horizon of ten points of the Compass, viz—from right ahead to two points abaft the beam on the Starboard side.
- The Red Light on the Port side is likewise to be fitted so as to throw its light the same distance on that side.
- 4. The Side Lights are moreover to be fitted with screens, on the inboard side, of at least three feet long, to prevent the lights from being seen across the bow.
- 5. The Master of any Steam Vessel while under weigh during thick or foggy weather, shall, in addition to the lights already provided to be carried, cause a bell to be rung or a steam whistle to be sounded every minute, and whenever a Steam Vessel, while under weigh, shall be within any harbour or river within the colony of New South Wales, between the hours of sunset and sunrise, he shall cause the above signals to be made by ringing the bell or sounding the whistle, and shall continue the same until the Vessel shall have arrived at her wharf or anchorage.

When at Anchor-A common bright Light.

SAILING VESSELS.

We hereby require that all Sailing Vessels when under sail, or being towed, approaching or being approached by any other Vessel, shall be bound to show between sunset and sunrise a bright light in such a position as can be best seen by such Vessel or Vessels, and in sufficient time to avoid collision; and when approaching any port or harbour at which a pilot station is established, shall exhibit on board of any Vessel commanded by any person holding a certificate of exemption granted by the Pilot Board of New South Wales, (in pursuance of the 3rd and 5th sections of the Act of Parliament, 22 Victoria, No. 4,) at some conspicuous part of the Vessel, between sunset and sunrise, two bright Lights to be suspended one over the other at a distance of two feet between each Lantern, and shall keep the same burning until anchored within the port or harbour.

All Sailing Vessels at anchor in Roadsteads or Fairways, shall be also bound to exhibit between sunset and sunrise a constant bright light at the Mast-head.

The Lantern to be used when at anchor, both by Steam Vessels and Sailing Vessels, is to be so constructed as to show a clear good light all round the horizon.

We hereby revoke all Regulations heretofore made by us relating to Steam Vessels exhibiting or carrying Lights; and we require that the preceding Regulations be strictly carried into effect, on and after the 1st July, 1859.

Given under our hands, at Sydney, the 26th April, 1859.

After having waited till the last moment, we are reluctantly compelled to go to press without being able to give the days appointed for holding Courts in the Northern District; these have not been published up to the 31st December, 1859; and for all information the reader must refer to the Registrars of their respective places in this District.

The District Courts having been in operation for some months are becoming better understood. The intention of the Legislature, in passing the Act, was that Cheap Justice might be brought as near to every man's door as the nature of things would permit, while the title of the Act informs us simply that it was to establish District Courts, and to enable the Judges of those Courts to act as Chairmen of Quarter Sessions. These District Courts have a jurisdiction purely civil, and are in no way connected in the operation with the Courts of Quarter Sessions, of which it is enacted that the Judges of the District Courts may also be Chairmen.

The District Courts are Courts of Record, but are nevertheless inferior Courts. Their jurisdiction in some respects combines that of the Superior Courts of Law and Equity with that of the Courts of Requests and Petty Sessions, previously existing in the colony.

The respective jurisdiction of each is determined by the residence of the Defendant, or one of the defendents, who are compelled to appear at that Court only within the jurisdiction of which they live; except in cases where the Defendant has given an engagement in writing to pay at a certain place, he may then be summoned to the Court within the district of which the place specified is; and where he has contracted a debt, and moved out of the district, previous to the issuing of the summons, when the Court into the district of which he has moved has concurrent jurisdiction with that from the district of which he has come. For further information regarding the nature and working of these Courts, the reader is referred to Mr. Foster's Work on the subject.

SUPREME COURT ARRANGEMENTS.

REGULÆ GENERALES.

The following Rules are hereby established, for the despatch of Business in the several Departments of the Supreme Court, during the ensuing year (1860.)

Sittings for Causes.

1. There shall be Four Sittings, commencing respectively on Monday, the 13th of February, the 7th day of May, the 6th day of August, and the 5th day of November; and ending severally on Thursday in the fourth week following.

Common Juries.

At those Sittings, the last Thursday in the Jury Court shall be, exclusively, for the trial of Common Jury Causes, if there be any.

Special Juries.

- 3. The first fortnight of each sittings, in that Court, shall be set apart for the trial of Causes by Special Juries of Twelve. But no such Cause shall be set down, except for the first three days of the Sittings; as at present.

 Special Jury Remanets.
- 4. Every such Cause, the trial of which has not been commenced within that fortnight, shall go over as a Remanet.

Juries of Four in Jury Court,

5. No Cause, for trial in the Jury Court by a Jury of Four, shall be set down for any day of the Sittings earlier than Monday in the third week.

Remanets Generally.

6. Remanets from any Sitting may be set down, (each according to its appropriate List, and the Class of Jury to which it belongs,) for such day or days of the next Sittings as the Prothonotory may think fit.

The like.

- On each day Remanets will have precedence over all other Causes.

 Saturdays.
- 8. There will be no Sitting of the Court in Sydney, in any branch of its Jurisdiction (except for the trial or disposal of Prisoners,) on any Saturday.
 Causes, &c., pastly heard.
 - 9. Provided that any Argument or Trial, partly heard but not concluded on Friday, may be continued on the next day, if the Court, or Presiding Judge, shall think fit.

Last Saturday in Term.

 Provided also, that the Court will sit on the last Saturday in each Term.

Four Terms.

11. There shall be Four Terms; commencing respectively on Monday the 9th day of April, the 11th day of June, the 8th day of October, and the 10th day of December; and ending severally on Saturday in the third week following, excepting the Fourth Term, which will end on Saturday the 22nd day of December.

Mondays, Wednesdays, and Thursdays, in each Term.

12. On every Monday, Wednesday, and Thursday in Term, New Trial Motions will have precedence of all other Business; except that on the First day of Term, other Motions will have precedence.

Tuesdays and Fridays in Term.

13. On every Tuesday and Friday, (two Judges only then ordinarily sitting,) business will be taken in the order as follows:—First, Criminal Cases on Points Reserved. Secondly, Motions; not being New Trial Motions. Thirdly, Demurrers and Special Cases, other than as aforesaid.

Equity and Insolvency.

14. The Primary Equity Judge will sit on every such Tuesday and Friday in Term, at 11 o'clock;—on the former day for Equity, and the latter day for Insolvency, and such other matters as by the late Act may be taken by one Judge only.

Business before Equity Judge.

15. After the disposal of those matters, the said Primary Judge will sit on every such Friday in Equity.

Equity and Insolvency out of Term.

16. The Primary Judge will sit, at the same hour, on every Tuesday, Wednesday, and Friday, out of Term: on the two former days for Equity only, and on the latter mentioned day for Insolvency;—after which, all such other matters as aforesaid will be taken, and then Equity.

Appeals in Equity.

17. Appeals in Equity shall be set down for the three days next succeeding the first, second, and third terms;—and for Thursday, Friday, and Saturday, in the week succeeding the fourth term.

Appeals in Insolvency.

18. Appeals from the allowance or disallowance of an Insolvent's Certificate, will be heard on such days as shall be for that purpose specially appointed.

Fines and Estreats.

19. Schedules of Fines and Estreated Recognizances, shall be returnable on some Friday in Term, at 11 o'clock; to be then heard before one Judge only.

Chamber Business.

20. Chamber Business will be taken on Tuesdays and Fridays, at 10 o'clock; in Term and Vacation alike—Provided that a Summons may be returnable on any other day, by order of a Judge.

The like during the Holidays.

21. Summonses, during the January and July Vacations, shall be returnable exclusively on Friday; and then in cases of emergency only.

Alfred Stephen. J. N. Dickinson. Saml. Fred. Milford.

CRIMINAL RESSION IN AUGUST, 1860.

 The Session of Goal Delivery at Darlinghurst, in August next, shall commence on Wednesday, the first day of that month, instead of on the first Monday, as required by the existing Rules.

Holidays in 1860.

2. The Holidays to be observed in the ensuing year, in addition to those prescribed by the Standing Rules, shall be the following:—The 2nd, 27th, 28th, and 30th days of January; the 17th day of March; the 7th day of April; the 14th, 16th, 17th, 28th, and 30th days of July; the 22nd and 24th days of September; and the 26th day of December.

The like in June.

There will be no Holiday on the 20th day of June in any year, unless the Court shall expressly so order.

(PARTAKING OF GOVERNMENT SUPPORT.)

The Rev. Mr. Johnson was the first Chaplain that arrived in the Colony. In March 1794 he was joined by the Rev. Samuel Marsden, a name long rememberred and celebrated for a lifetime of evangelistic spirit and Missionary labours, both here and New Zealand; to which place he undertook no less than seven voyages, being eminently useful in establishing Missions in these Islands. Shortly after his arrival the Senior Chaplain Mr. Johnson returned to England, so that for long he laboured alone amongst a people notorious at that time for vice and profligacy.

In those days, the Bishop of Calcutta exercised spiritual authority over the clergy of the Church of England in Australia. The first Archdeacon, Rev. Thomas Hobbs Scott, arrived May 7th, 1825. He was succeeded by the Venerable Archdeacon Broughton, who arrived September 13th, 1829, and who, on its erection into a See in 1836, was created Bishop. He died in 1854, when he was succeeded by the Rev. Dr. Barker. In 1841, Bishopricks were erected in New Zealand; 1842, Tasmania; 1847, Newcastle, Adelaide, Melbourne; 1850, Lyttleton, Western Australia; 1858, Wellington, Nelson; and 1859, Queensland.

SYNOD OF AUSTRALIA.

(IN CONNEXION WITH THE CHURCH OF SCOTLAND.)

The first Presbyterian Minister who arrived in the colony was the Rev. Dr. Lang, who preached his first sermon June 8th, 1823. He laboured alone till 1831, when in consequence of his exertions, 5 others were added. Since that time till 1840 various others arrived; but the Presbyterian Church having previously existed in a disunited state, it was then united and formed into the Synod of Australia. Two secessions have taken place since, viz., that of Dr. Lang in 1842, and that of Synod of Eastern Australia, who separated on Free Church principles, in 1846.

Moderator of Synod-Rev. John Dougall. Clerk of Synod-Rev. James Milne, Paddington.

PRESBYTERIAN CHURCH OF EASTERN AUSTRALIA.

This Church was formed in 1847, by the secession from the Synod of Australia of three ministers and a large body of the people. The grounds of their doing so were, that that Synod, after protracted discussions, eventually resolved to retain their designation as "in connection with the Church of Scotland," which, however appropriate it might have been at one time, could no longer be acquiesced in by those who considered that body guilty of sin in submitting to the encroachments of the Civil Power in Spiritual things, and of which the formation of the Free Church was the effect. By retaining that designation therefore, it virtually implied an approval of her principles, and thus rendered necessary the retirement of those who held other opinions. Though it recognizes the principles of the Free Church as her principles, the Synod of Eastern Australia is an independent body, not subject to any other Church whatever, either directly or indirectly.

The University of Sydney was incorporated by an Act of the Colonial Legislature, which received the Royal Assent on the 9th December, 1851. The objects set forth in the preamble, are "the advancement of religion and morality, and the promotion of useful knowledge." It is empowered to confer degrees in Arts, Law, and Physic; and is endowed with an annual income of £5,000.

The Lectures of the Professors are open to persons not members of the University, upon payment of a moderate fee for each course.

Out of the endowment fund the Senate has made provision for eight scholarships, of the annual value of £50 each; to these private munificence has added three; one has been founded by Thomas Barker, Esq., for the encouragement of Mathematical Science; the second, by the Honorable E. Deas Thomson, for Chemistry and Experimental Physics, and the third from the Honorable Sir Daniel Cooper, for the encouragement of Classical Studies, they are tenable for one year, and are open to all Undergraduates without limitation, who have completed their sixth term of residence. By the purchase of the Sydney College, the University has also become possessed of £600, the bequest of the late Solomon Levy Esq., which has been applied to the endowment of a scholarship open to

The distinctive character of the Sydney University, is the absence of any Religious test, as a condition of membership, of honour or of Office: it is intended to supply the means of a liberal education to "all orders and denominations without any distinction whatever;" it possesses no theological faculty, but resembles, in respect of its secular faculties the Universities of Germany and Edinburgh,—and of Oxford and Cambridge, as reformed by the late Act of Parliament.

By a Royal Charter issued 7th February, 1858, the same rank, style, and precedence were granted to graduates of the University of Sydney as are enjoyed by graduates of Universities within the United Kingdom. The University of Sydney is also declared in the amended Charter granted to the University of London, to be one of the institutions in connection with that University, from which certificates of having pursued a due course of instruction shall be received, with a view to admission to Degrees.

SUFFRAGAN COLLEGES CONNECTED WITH THE UNIVERSITY.

ST. PAUL'S COLLEGE.

This College is founded by members of the Church of England, for the especial tuition and residence of Students belonging to that Church, or whose friends may not object to their being taught her Doctrines and Discipline. Every Student must be entered as a member of the University, and remain such, and must attend the University Lectures and Examinations-for which he will be here prepared by a course of Tutorial Instruction in addition to the instruction he receives in Divinity.

The attainments of Teachers are tested by a written examination, and their skill in teaching, by an inspection of their several schools. Before a certificate is granted to any Teacher, it is absolutely necessary that his school should be found to be in good condition, and that he should pass a satisfactory examination in all the subjects usually taught in National Schools: viz., Reading, Writing, Arithmetic, Grammar, and Geography. Examinations in other subjects are at the option of Teachers, but, if they wish to obtain the higher certificates, they must prepare to be examined in the higher branches of instruction. The classification of the Teacher, and the amount of his salary are in every case contingent on the Inspector's Report as to the efficiency of the school. It is not compulsory upon Teachers to submit themselves to an examination, but no certificate of merit is issued to them unless they do so, and they do not participate in the advantages held out by the Board to deserving masters. They simply receive a written permission to teach, and are paid at the lowest rate abovementioned. In forming an estimate of the efficiency of a school, as the above scale of renumeration is a joint salary for husband and wife, the competency and usefulness of the latter are taken in account.

LIST OF NATIONAL SCHOOLS.

Note.—The letter (v) denotes the School Property to be vested in the Board. The letters (nv) denote the School Property to be non-vested. The blanks under the heading, "Teacher," show that the School is not in operation.

This Society was established on the 27th January, 1857, for the purpose of collecting information of all insolvencies, assignments, compromises, frauds, dishonor of bills, powers of attorneys, bills of sale, and other securities, or unjust preferences, and to keep a registry of the same for the inspection of its members.

The Society has succeeded in obtaining a large mass of information, which has been the means, in numerous instances, of saving subscribers from heavy losses; its members are steadily increasing, and its influence proportionately extending.

Kindred institutions are now being established in the sister colonies, and will be in direct communication with this society.

The Secretary is in attendance at the office daily, from 10 to 11 o'clock a.m., and from 2 to 3 p.m.

Business of the Society.—Life Assurance in all its departments; Issue of Present, Deferred, and Reversionary Annuities; Granting Endowments for Children and Old Age.

The Second Investigation of the Society's affairs shewed as the results of the five years' business, ending February 28th, 1859, a profit of more than 50 per cent. on the liabilities. After making an ample reserve, the profit divided among the Members amounted to more than 40 per cent. on the value of the policies.

In his Report, dated October 3rd, 1859, the Actuary states that "there is every reason to expect that the existing business will, on future occasions. shew an increasing ratio of profit." A policy of life Assurance effected in June, 1849, by a person then aged 40, for £500, now stands as a Policy for £692 13s., and on February 28th next, and at the expiration of each year thereafter, it will have a further addition of £12 6s. 7d., until 1864, when the next division takes place.

Another effected in 1853, the age at entrance being the same, now stands as £546 10s., and for each complete year it exists thereafter until the next division, it will have a further addition of £9 3s. 4d. made to it.

Insurance Companies.

A Deferred Annuity Policy effected in 1849, commencing in 1867, for £20, now stands as for £29 1s. 10d.

An endowment of £400 originally, procured 9 years ago, payable on the majority of a child in 1870, Is now a policy for £503 17s. 9d.

The Society has Agents and Medical Referees in most of the important places in New South Wales, and the other Australasian Colonies.

Country Districts.

AN ALPHABETICAL LIST OF THE VARIOUS POLICE DISTRICTS OF THE COLONY.

With a General description of their Physical Appearance, Boundaries, &c., with names of the Magistrates, &c., the Benches at which they perform duty.—Days of meeting of the Court, Clerks of Petty Sessions, Registrars for Births, Marriages, and Deaths, Commissioners of Crown Lands, Clergy, Schools, Statistics of Population, Education, Religious Persuasions. &c., &c.

The Separation of Queensland necessarily reduces the number of the Police Districts of New South Wales. Full information, however, regarding those that have been cut off will be found in their respective places under Queeneland.

ABBREVIATIONS.—P.M., Police Magistrate; C.C.L., Commissioner of Crown Lands; C.P.S., Clerk of Petty Sessions; Ch. Com., Chief Constable.

The Magistrates marked * throughout the Country Districts, are appointed to give consent to the Marriage of Minors. The Statistics given are those of 1856.

ALBURY.

Albury is situated on the right bank of the Murray, where the river is crossed Albury is situated on the right bank of the Murray, where the river is crossed by the Great Southern Road; it is 378 miles from Sydney, and 200 miles from Melbourne. Other distances are 140 miles from Deniliquin, 120 from Gundagal, 30 from Wagga Wagga, and 28 from Beechworth. By the course of the Murray it is about 300 miles from its source, and about 1800 miles from its debouchure in Lake Alexandrina; the respective travelling distances being 140 and 700. The first settlement was made here about eighteen years since, but the place made no progress until within the last nine years. The district is scarcely exceeded in fertility and beauty by any tract of country in Australia. The production of wheat and other cereais is rapidly increasing, and now amounts to about 50,000 bushels. There are many four-indirections where owing to the great mildrage of fourishing vineyards and beautiful gardens, where, owing to the great mildness of the climate, many tropical plants can be cultivated. Albury being only about 700 feet above the sea level. A Newspaper is published weekly, the Border Post.

Of the geology of the district little can be said, it being scarcely different from the neighbouring districts. The rocks are all of the old formations, granite, and the various kinds of slate, the latter intersected with immense dykes of quarts.

The country is everywhere more or less auriferous.

BROULEE.

The Police District of Broulee, on the coast, extends from Durras Lake, on the north, to Brogo River on the south, and contains from sixteen to eighteen hundred inhabitants. It comprises all the county of Dampier, and part of St. Vincent. There are five rivers, the Clyde, Moruya, Turos, Woyonga, and Bermagua, all more or less navigable. There is constant steam communication between Nelligen, on the Clyde, and Sydney. The trade between the Moruya River and the metropolis is carried on by means of eight or ten coasting vessels, of from 20 to 70 tons burthen. There is little or no trade from the other rivers. Moruya is the principal Town, and principal Police Station. Nelligen, on the Clyde, is rapidly rising into importance. Its rival town, Currowan, higher up the river, though in every respect the best situated, has to fight too unequally against established interests, to make much progress at present.

The Gold Diggings now extend from Araluen, a tributary of the Moruya River. down the latter nearly to the sea. Quartz reefs have been discovered and worked, and crushing machines erected within three miles of Moruya. Some of the quartz has yielded three ounces to the ton. One of the mills is a fourteen-horse power, Situate on the Edward River, about 500 miles W.S.W. from Sydney, and 195 Situate on the Edward River, about 500 miles W.8.W. from Sydney, and 195 due north from Melbourne. It was proclaimed a Township in 1852; and at present the population amounts to about 800 individuals. That of the Police District, in addition to the Town, is between 500 and 600. As yet it is almost entirely a Pastoral District—an extensive, influential, and opulent one. Within the last year or two, however, farming and gardening operations, upon a small scale, have been attempted, with very fair prospects of ultimate success, notwithstanding the natural dryness of the climate, and the continued heat of summer. Most of the supplies, therefore, are either procured from Melbourne, or from the more favoured neighbourne, districts. In the Township itself there are several public houses, general stores. ing districts. In the Township itself there are several public houses, general stores, and shops.

Private enterprise, in Deniliquin, has already completed a line of Electric Telegraph from Echua, in Victoria, to this place, a distance of 45 miles. A suspension GRAFTON.

The Clarence River, in which district Grafton is situated, was discovered 1838. It is the largest river known on the Eastern Coast, with 13 feet water on the bar, and navigable for 60 miles, by vessels of 300 tons. There are large quantities of rich alluvial plains, cedar brushes, and swamps on the river and its tributaries; interspersed with sandstone and ironstone ridges, in the lower part of the District; and sandstone, clay, slate, and granite in the upper portion. Copper has been found in several places; also coal of good quality, and other minerals which are not so well known. Gold is now being procured from Glen Elgin to Tooloom, a distance of 50 Miles, on all Northern tributaries of the Clarence about 60 miles west and north-west of Grafton. There are about 3000 diggers at work.

Agricultural pursuits are rapidly extending on the Clarence, the Land Sales average upwards of £20,000 per annum. It is computed that 70,000 bushels of maize were exported last year. An extensive Sugar Plantation is in progress.

GUNDAGAI.

This Police District is situated in that division of the territory known as "Beyond the limits of location," and embraces portions of the Murrumbidgee and Lachlan Squatting Districts, being portions of the Counties of Buckland and Wynyard in the former, and Clarendon and Harden in the latter. It contains 2268 square yard in the former, and Clarendon and Harden in the latter. It contains 2268 square miles. The soil of the river flat is exceedingly rich, and the hills and inferior low lands are remarkable for pastoral purposes. The land generally under cultivation is stated at 3000 acres. The chief products are wheat, barley, malze, oats, miller, potatoes, cheese, butter, hides, skins, and tailow. The district generally, but more particularly North Gundagai, and the suburbs for five miles round, are considered highly aurilerous. The Adelong and Muttamah quartz reefs are in it.

The town of Gundagai is situated on the Murrumbidgee, where the Great Southern Road crosses that river. It occupies both banks, and is in consequence divided into North and South Gundagai; the former is on the right bank of the divided into North and South Gundagai; the former is on the right bank of the river, and is the head quarters of the district. Its settlement was first suggested in 1836, but the town was not surveyed and marked out for sale earlier than 1840, mytich year the first sale of allotments was held. In November, 1844, the inhabitants were for the first time dismayed and inconvenienced by the flooding of the Murrumbidgee. An account of the devastations occasioned by these floods has not only appeared under this heading in previous volumes, but has been commented on by Mr. Jevons, in his able treatise on the Meteorology of Australia, contained in the Almanac, 1859. After the dreadful catastrophe in 1852, the first land sale was held in November, 1853, since which a new town has gradually been rising out of the ruins of the old one, and now in the fourth year of its existence presents a very favourable and promising aspect. It contains many large buildings—among which are two steam flour mills, nine hotels, seven stores, a National School-house on the largest scale that system will admit of, and a commodious Roman Catholic Chapel. Sites for the Protestant Episcopalian Church, School, and Parsonage, and two and a half acres for an Hospi al—for which a spacious stone building has just been com-pleted—have been granted by the Government. Gundagai is 244 miles from Sydney, 126 from Goulburn, and 66 from Yass and Binalong respectively. The distances on the south are 25 to Tumut and the Adelong gold fields, 55 to Wagga Wagga, 120 to Albury, and 360 from Deniliquin. Owing to its central situation, the wacth-house in the town has become the receptacle for prisoners from seven Police Stations to the south and west. On the 16th September, 1858, Captain Francis Cadell ascended the Murrumbidgee and arrived at Gundagai, in his large steamboat "Albury," and thus opened up the natural highway of commerce to the heart of this territory—proved the practical navigation of the noble Murrumbidgee, and brought it within a fortnight's reach of the South Australian capital. Through the gallant enterprise of this truly great pioneer, Gundagai has received an advantage over all inland towns to the north, east, and west, which circumstance attaches to it an importance which it could not have derived from any other source. Adelong is the second, and Jugiong the third town of the district.

Ferry-Established in 1850. Lessees-Frederick Gasse and Michael Doyle.

Electoral. Under the Act of 1851, the Pastoral District of Murrumbidgee was an electorate, and returned two members, who represented, with other towns, South Gundagai; voters 72; and the United Pastoral Districts of Lachlan and Lower Darling were one electorate, and returned two members, who represented, with other towns, North Gundagai, voters 113. Under the New Bill, the two electorates just named are divided into five. The Police Districts are the electorates. Gundagai is in two, thus, Binalong, North Gundagai, and Wagga Wagga, form one; and Tumut and South Gundagai form another; and each will return one member. By this arrangement, the apportionment of representation has been lessened by two members, while the number of voters in this Police District are increased to about 450. The residentiary class of voters will bear the largest proportion.

This District, famous for the richness of its soil, picturesqueness of its scenery, and salubrity of its climate, forms a portion of the County of East Camden. It is bounded on the north by the Macquarie or Terry's River, and on the south by the Crooked River, east by the sea, and west by the Illawarra Range. The Townships in the District are Shellharbour Jamberoo, Kiama, and Geringong, at all of which Post Offices are established. Steam communication is held daily with Sydney, and the district is much recorded for the nurseas of health and verention. They are Fost Omces are established. Steam communication is held daily with Bydney, and the district is much resorted to for the purposes of health and recreation. There are several remarkable geological features to be met with. The exports are large, principally of dairy produce; and the harbour every day becomes more insufficient for the demands made upon it, in loading and unloading vessels. Government have, however, promised a grant towards a breakwater and jetty, which we trust soon to see realized.

NEWCASTLE.

Lieut. Shortland, of H.M.S. "Reliance," who was sent from Sydney in search of some runaway convicts who had seized the largest boat the Government search of some runaway convicts who had seized the largest boat the Government possessed: on his return from Port Stephens, in his whale-boat, on the 16th September, 1797, entered a river which he named "The Hunter," in honour of the Governor. The entrance of the river was but narrow, and covered by a rocky island lying right off it, so as to leave a good passage round the north end of the island, between that and the shore. A Government Depot was soon afterwards established at this place, and coal being discovered, the name of Newcastle was given it, in the hope of its one day being to New South Wales what the Newcastle of the old country is to England. Nor has it disappointed the anticipations thus early entertained. —The district abounds with coal, large quantities of which are annually exported. —The Great Northern Railway commences here; it has already extended as far as West Maitland, and it is hoped will soon reach Singleton.

TUMUT.

This District is very large. There are computed to be upwards of 2000 acres under cultivation.

District very far behind in every thing useful and ornamental;—bad bridges, worse roads, and no public spirit. Money making being the great object; no schools, no public Societies, nor Charitable Institutions—only one Town in the district, and the progress very slow. Geologically, very auriferous. Diggings going a-head, and very rich. Population increasing greatly.

Magistrates—John Archer Broughton; Thomas Broughton Carne;

*Charles George Norman Lockhart; John Burleigh Sharpe; William K. Smith; *Frederick Wheler Vyner. C. P. S .- Sydney Blythe. Ch. Con.-Edward Murphy.

The Court meets every Friday, and on the first Friday of each month for Cases of Debt. Registrar-Sydney Blythe. Bailiff-James Eagan. C. C. L.-Charles George Norman Lockhart. Gold Commissioner-

Robert B. Lynch. Registrar of Births, &c .- Henry Hilton. Clergy-Church of England-Revds. Samuel Fox. Presbyterian-

Robert Fitzgerald. Roman Catholic -- Birmingham.

STATISTICS.

The statistics of the population of this district cannot be given with accuracy at present. The number last year was 1467, but the increase in the township and district since then has been very great. Returns one member under the New Electoral Bill.

WAGGA WAGGA.

ls a progressive and rapidly-advancing little town, around which a large agricultural ls a progressive and rapidly-advancing little town, around which a large agricultural population is fast locating itself. The town is situate on the Murrumbidgee, 330 miles from Sydney and 400 from Melbourne. The country around is of an open pastoral character, and is densely stocked. The soil is of a rich description, being deep alluvium on the flats, and a strong loamy clay on the ridges. There are no auriferous indications, but the river sands contain a considerable quantity of veryine gold in transitu, brought from the auriferous country surrounding the Tumut, Adelong, and Muttemah, by the large tributaries to the river.

The population of Wagga Wagga and its suburbs numbers about 600 souls. The members of the Church of England preponderate. The town has progressed very rapidly latterly. An English Church, and a Roman Catholic Chapel are advancing towards completion; a National School is being commenced; there is an Hospital, mainly supported by subscriptions; and a Benevolent Society. The Town also boasts of a Newspaper and a Mechanics' Institute, with reading rooms aftached. A Steam Mill is at work in the Village. A District Court is held here, presided over by the Judge of the Southern Circuit, and there is a Resident Police Magistrate. Two large Punts ply on the River and all the traffic of Stock, from the Northern and Western Country to the Southern, passes through it. The Steamers from Adelaide make periodical trips to the Town. The surveyed line for the proposed Railway to Melbourne passes close to the Town. The community is generally a very prosperous one, and characterized by more than an ordinary degree of intelligence and respectability. There is a Mail to and from Sydney and Melbourne three times a week; once a week to Deniliquin; once a week to Balranald. The Country around Waggs Waggs is highly favourable to the production of Grape, and a wine of a superior description, has been already made near the Town by settlers named Nixon. Untimely frosts have damaged the Vines seriously this year. The season is a dry one, and its meteorological phenomena have been highly interesting.

LETTERS vid CALLAO AND PANAMA.

Letters addressed to or through Great Britain by this Route must bear in addition to the ordinary postage rate, a six-penny stamp for every dounce, in order to cover the New Granadian transit charge.

GENERAL REGULATIONS.

All Letters received in this Colony from any part beyond the seas that have not been regularly posted at the place of despatch, will be charged with the Colonial Ship Rates of Postage.

All letters posted in New South Wales must be pre-paid by affixing thereon postage stamps of sufficient value.

Any letter posted for delivery in the Colony, will, if the postage stamps thereon be not grossly deficient in value, be forwarded and charged with double the postage deficient; but if grossly deficient the letter will be opened and returned to the writer.

Any letter posted for transmission to the United Kingdom, will, if bearing at least a single rate of postage, be forwarded and charged with the postage deficient, and a single rate of postage as a fine; but if not bearing a single rate of postage, it will be opened and returned to the writer.

Letters posted for transmission to the neighbouring Colonies, and to Foreign Countries and British Colonies generally, whether sent direct or through the United Kingdom, will invariably be opened and returned to the writers, unless they bear the full amount of postage payable thereon.

Any person can have a letter registered by affixing on it by means of the proper Stamps, the amount of the Registration fee, in addition to the proper postage, and presenting it at a Post Office during office hours, when a receipt for the same will be given, and every precaution will be adopted to ensure its safe delivery by entering it on the Letter Bills, and obtaining a receipt for the same on delivery. As the Post Office, however, is not responsible for the loss of any letter, whether registered or otherwise, parties sending Bank notes or drafts are advised to take the numbers and particulars, and to cut such notes or drafts in halves, and to send them by different Posts.

Letters on being re-directed are chargeable with a new and distinct rate of postage.

Inland letters must be posted half an hour previous to the time fixed for the despatch of mails; but late letters will be received to within a quarter of an hour upon a fee of a six-penny stamp being affixed to each letter.

The Sydney letter carriers will deliver three times daily; the third time, however, only in the more business parts of the city; starting from the General Post Office at 9 a.m., 1 p.m., and 4 p.m.; and letters for such deliveries, or for despatch to the country, must be posted at the General Post Office as follows:—

For 9 a.m. Town Delivery at 8:30 a.m. For 1 p.m. Town Delivery at 12:30 p.m. For 4 p.m. Town Delivery at 3:30 p.m. At 8:30 a.m. for despatch to the Suburban Offices.

For despatch to the Country.—At 1 p.m. to the Western District; at 4:30 p.m. to the Southern District; and at 7:30 p.m. for the Northern Districts, Letters for despatch by Coasters must be posted not later than 5.30 p.m.

All Books, whether printed, written, or plain, or any mixture of the three; photographs upon paper, and printed circulars of every description; publications or compilations, whether in print or in manuscript; almanacks, prints, maps, whether on paper, or canvas or cloth, and whether printed or written, or any mixture of the two; and any description of paper, parchment, or vellum, whether printed, written upon, or plain, or any mixture of the three, with any binding, mounting, or covering of, or upon, or belonging to any book, or publication, or work, or any portion thereof, or of or belonging to any paper, parchment, or vellum, and any cases or rollers of prints, or maps, book-markers, pencils, pens, or other articles usually appertaining to any such book, publication or work, paper, parchment, or vellum, or necessary for its safe transmission.

The following are the Rules which must be attended to in the transmission of Book Parcels:—

- 1. No packet shall exceed two feet in length, breadth, or width.
- No packet shall exceed three pounds in weight.
- 3. With the above limitations, a packet may contain any number of separate books, almanacs, maps, or prints, and any quantity of paper, vellum, or parchment.
- 4. Every packet shall be sent open at the ends or sides, and either without a cover or in a cover or envelope open at the ends or sides, and there shall be no letter either closed or open, nor any enclosure, sealed or otherwise, closed against inspection sent in or with any such packet, nor shall there be any letter or any communication in the nature of a letter written or printed on the cover or envelope of any such packet.
- The names and address of the sender may appear on the cover as well as those of the party addressed, but this is not indispensable.
- 6. Should a packet be posted unpaid, or with a pre-payment of less than a single rate, or be enclosed in a cover not open at the ends or sides, or should it exceed the dimensions or weight specified, such packet will be sent to the Dead Letter Office, and returned to the writer.
- 7. Should any letter, whether sealed or open, or otherwise closed against inspection, be found in a Book Packet, such letter or other enclosure, will be forwarded, charged not only with the postage due upon it as an unpaid letter, but also with an additional single Book Post Rate. The packet itself, in such case, will be forwarded provided the postage shall have been duly paid, without any extra charge.
- 8. Where a Book Packet shall have been posted, and insufficiently pre-paid, and it shall appear that at least a single rate has been paid thereon, such packet will be forwarded, charged with an additional postage equal to the deficiency, and a further rate as a fine.

EDUCATION OF THE PEOPLE.

The subjoined tables show how many persons could read and write in each thousand of the respective sexes and classes; for the whole colony, at the census of 1846, and at that of 1856; for Sydney, at those of 1851 and 1856. The difference between any of these numbers and 1000 denotes the proportion who can neither read nor write, or read only.

POLICE DISTRICTS.

Of the various Police Districts it is yet unknown how far they are affected by the recent change of Government; we, however, give them as they existed immediately preceding the proclamation of the Colony.

Brisbane, the chief town of the new colony of Queensland, is situated on a river of the same name, in the county of Stanley, and is distant from Sydney about 640 miles. Few places have risen so rapidly in importance, but this is not to be wondered at, when it is considered that it is the port of a most extensive grazing district, stretching about 400 miles to the west, besides the area that more immediately surrounds it on the north and south. The river was discovered by Lieut. Flinders in 1799, and is navigable as far as Ipswich.

A Post Office is established at Condamine, and a mail arrives every Saturday. Departure on Monday. A mail also to Surat, to Wallan, to the Dawson River, and to Taroom.

DALBY.

This Police District is situated in the Darling Downs. The first allotments in the township of Dalby were sold in 1857, since which time the population has rapidly increased. It now contains three excellent Stores and three good Inns. The great distance the Magistrates respectively reside from the Court-house renders their attendance very irregular, in consequence of which the appoirtment of a Police Magistrate is much needed. The Electoral Lists have not been revised since 1856.

Magistrates-Arthur W. Manning; Charles Coxen; J. C. White. C.P.S.-Frank S.

Bowerman. Ch. Con.—James Shilton, Agent for the Sale of Crown Lands, Agent for the Curator of Intestate Estates, Com-missioner of the Supreme Court for taking Afidavits—Frank S. Bowerman.

DRAYTON.

This Police District extends from the Dividing Range westerly to the River Barwan, a distance of about 250 miles, with an irregular width exceeding 50 miles. It contains the Townships of Drayton and Toowoomba, the latter, though it has only been settled about three years, promises to excel the older township, from which it is only three miles distant, in its buildings and number of inhabitants. There is a Benevolent Society established at Drayton, of which Dr. Armstrong is Treasurer.

Darling Down comprises the Police Districts of Drayton, Warwick, Dalby, Condamine, and Callandoon.

Magistrates—(District of Drayton) *Frederick Neville Isaac; Ralph T. Gore; John Watt; Henry Bates Fitz; James Taylor; Richard Cobham, C.P.S.—G. H.

JAMES W. WAUGH,

Bookseller, Stationer, and Account Book

MANUFACTURER,

284, LATE 139, GEORGE STREET,

HAS much pleasure in bringing before the Public the following branches of his business, all of which it is his constant aim to carry on, so as to ensure the greatest satisfaction to those who may favor him with their support.

The Manufacture of Account Books.

This is carried on on the Premises; and, having the most experienced workmen, he is able to appeal to the work that has been already executed for his numerous customers, in support of its superiority and general style of execution. Account Books have ever received the largest share of his attention, and which he is constantly manufacturing on the most approved principles, with patent spring backs, &c., combining durability with the great requisite of opening out flat, and thus being rendered easy for use.

Paper Ruling.

A Ruling Machine has been lately added to his manufactory, by which the most intricate patterns can be worked, and to which may be added printed headings and paging, when so required.

A Hydraulic Press.

for Bookbinding has just been erected, being, it is believed, the only one for that purpose in the colony. This has been imported expressly to order, with the view of rendering colonial work on a par with the best manufactories in London.

Ledgers, Journals, Day Books, Cash Books, Minute and Letter Books, Invoice Books, Account Current and Account Sales Books, Long, broad, and narrow Foolscap, Pot, and Post Books, Guard Books for Bills of Lading, Invoices, &c., Loose Indexes, Copying Paper Letter Books, &c., &c. constantly kept on hand.

Book Paging and Numbering.

A Machine for this purpose is also on the premises, and the advantages resulting from this convenience, and saving in clerical labour, cannot be overstated. Books paged or folio'd, cheques numbered, &c.. &c.

Bookbinding.

All kinds are carred on, including Books, Music, Illustrated News, Periodicals, Gazettes, Newspapers, &c. &c.

Schools and Public Institutions would do well to have their prize books bound here, instead of sending to London for them, as they could be stamped on the side with the name of the School or Institution, as indeed already done in numerous instances. Public Libraries and Reading Rooms dealt with on liberal terms, when many volumes have to be done at the same time. Law Libraries bound to pattern, as well as the finer descriptions of Binding in Calf extra and Morocco.

Engraving and Printing.

Card Plates, Wedding Cards, Bills of Lading, Promissory Notes, Bills of Exchange, Cheque Books, on the various City and Branch Banks, Order Books, Sheep and Cattle Returns, Station Orders, Agreements, Notes, and Circulars, Bill Heads, Pamphlets and Reports, &c. &c.

Stationery.

Post and Note Papers, cream laid, and Commercial blue wove and laid; Bank and Foreign, of the usual and extra sizes and with water lined ruling. Foolscap all sorts. Pott Papers superior quality light and heavy weights, Copying Papers, Black bordered Post and Note Papers all breadths of bordering. Envelopes, blue, yellow, and cream laid and wove, the usual assortment of sizes, as well as Foolscap and official, plain and cloth lined.

School Stationery.

Copy Books ruled single, and three hands, Copy Books with head lines as Darnell's, Chambers's, Swan's, and Gellatly's, Copy Slips, Slates and Slate Pencils, School Pens, &c., &c.

School Books.

ENGLISH Primers of various sorts, Mavor's, Fenning's, Vyse's, Guy's, Carpenter's and Butter's Spellings, Chambers' Educational Course, McCulloch's 1st, 2nd, and 3rd, Books, Series of Lessons and Course of Reading, Guy's and Goldsmith's Geographies, Murray's and Lennies Grammars, Play Grammar, Ingram's and Walkinghame's Arithmetics, Johnson's Dictionary, Pinnock's Goldsmith's England, Greece and Rome, Pinnock's Catechisms, Mangnall's Historical Questions, and a great variety of others too numerous to mention.

Books and Periodicals.

The newest Publications and Periodicals are regularly imported by the English Mail Steamers, and other opportunities. A large stock of works in every department of Literature constantly on hand, especially those of the most popular authors, an enumeration of which would be manifestly impossible, but an inspection earnestly invited. The newest publications are duly advertised in the Sydney papers as they arrive.

Bibles, Prayer Books, & Church Services.

These are kept in great variety both for the Pocket, Family, and Pulpit use, in plain bindings as well as in morocco and velvet, with gilt clasps, rims, &c.: also Ferrier's Bibles with the newly invented index.

Country Storekeepers

Supplied with all kinds of Stationery, plain or fancy—Books for School or popular use—Periodicals, &c.

J. W. WAUGH has made it his constant endeavour to deal with wholesale customers in such a manner as will induce a reception of orders. A trial, therefore, from those who have not yet had any dealings with him is respectfully invited.

LIST OF WORKS PUBLISHED

BY

JAMES W. WAUGH.

The Sydney Magazine of Science and Art,

EDITED BY JOSEPH DYER, ESQ.

Containing by Authority, the proceedings of the Australian Horticultural and Agricultural Society, and the Philosophical Society of New South Wales.

The importance of retaining a permanent record of the various papers that are from time to time submitted to the Scientific bodies in this city, and the advantages of a public medium of communication between Scientific men in distant parts of the colony, led to the establishment of the above Magazine. Its further character may be best learned when we mention that it contains the contributions of the following scientific gentlemen, wiz., His Excellency the Governor-General, Hon. E. Deas Thomson, Rev. W. B. Clarke, Captain Ward, Professor Smith, Professor Pell, Rev. W. Scott, Messrs. W. S. Jevons, T. W. Shepherd, E. O. Moriarty, Dr. Divorty, 11th Regiment, Mr. Ledger, R. Meston, Dr. Roberts, C. Rolleston, J. E. Blake, J. S. Norrie, and many others, with numerous illustrative engravings.

The two volumes which are completed, may be had bound in cloth, gilt title, price 30s., or sent per post, 32s.

Waugh's Australian Almanac.

In crown, 8vo., cloth, gilt title, price 5s.

THE FOLLOWING CRITIQUES APPEARED ON PREVIOUS VOLUMES.

"Mr. J. W. WAUGH, of 286, George-street, has just published an Almanac of some 300 pages, which claims to be styled par excellence, 'The Australian Almanac.' Works of this nature (as stated in the preface) are generally regarded as compilations of a dry and uninteresting character, merely useful for consultation, so far as their accuracy can be depended upon; and, as such, are usually treated as mere ephemeral productions, produced to answer a particular purpose, for a given time, and of no farther use after that period has elapsed. To the volume now under notice, no such idea can attach, for independently of the usual information contained in an Almanac, there is in its pages such an amount of other matter (historical, literary, and scientific) as will ensure its preservation and attentive perusal for years to come. This work, which is neatly printed and tastefully bound, must have been got up at great cost, and with an incredible amount of labour; the spirited publisher having evidently spared neither, in his desire to produce an Almanac worthy of the Colony. It is to be hoped, therefore, that its circulation will be such as to warrant Mr. Waugh in annually continuing his arduous and praiseworthy undertaking."—Sydney Morning Herald.

"This is unquestionably one of the best Almanacs published in this hemisphere; and it is a source of pleasure to us to bring under public notice a work in every way so deserving of general support. The publisher has not contented himself with a mere compilation, but has laboured hard to impart to the work an essentially original and Australian character. In this effort he has been entirely successful; and we make no extravagant assertion when we say that this Almanac, whether in regard to neatness and finish of appearance, convenience of arrangement, completeness and accuracy of information, and general utility, may bear favourable comparison with any similar work, whereever published. We can have no hesitation in cordially recommending Waugh's Australian Almanac. The work deserves to be successful, and we trust the publisher will have no reason to complain of want of appreciation on the part of the public."— Empire.

"This is a publication containing a vast amount of information. The Volume is neatly printed, is enclosed in a tastefully got up cover, and numbers 300 pages. There is so much to recommend in the publication, that we have pleasure in directing public attention to its general merit."—Armidale Express.

"WAUGH'S ALMANAC is in every respect excellent. It is full of information of the most useful and novel character. The Gazetteer of the Colony ought alone to secure it an extensive sale. It is altogether a very cheap book, and as good as it is cheap."—The Month.

"The very complete and useful volume published by Mr. WAUGH • • a mass of varied and available information being compiled into one view, and so arranged and amplified as to be of interest not only to the Colonists but to the readers of the English language generally. The entire work, has been thoroughly well executed."—Athenœum (London.)

"We can, with sincerity, commend this Almanac to the public. It is not only useful as a constant reference for business information, but may be read with much advantage, since it treats on many subjects interesting to all who desire acquaintance with the land of their adoption. The work is beautifully printed, and contains nearly three hundred pages of matter."

—Northern Times.

"We have to acknowledge the receipt of a copy of this standard Annual. It is no mean or inadequate representative of our social and political importance, of our material wealth and progress. Such a book as this,—perused carefully, and compared with the age of the colony, and with like books relative to other colonies—must impart a full and correct idea of the magnitude and variety of the products, the importance of the interests and the bright soundness of the prospects of this colony, to the enquiring stranger and to the contemplative resident, not to be obtained in any other one work yet published. The work, which extends over 300 pages, neatly and legibly printed, of a convenient size, and substantially bound It is hoped that the pecuniary result of Mr. Waugh's work may be such as to induce him to continue to improve it, as he has hitherto done."

Illawarra Mercury.

- "We have no hesitation in describing it as the most perfect work of reference and practical utility, in connexion not only with local, but also with general subjects, which has yet emanated from these Colonies."—

 Bathurst Free Press.
- "Altogether this is a most valuable production. We cordially commend the Almanac to our readers."—Christian Pleader.
- "WAUGH'S AUSTRALIAN ALMANAC for the year 1859, published at Sydney, is really a creditable production vastly superior to anything we had here before the British Almanack appeared. It contains a very large body of information—clerical and secular, social and political. The printing and paper are fully equal to London work—it is well and intelligently put together, and in every way it shows that our brethren in Sydney have not been unmindful of all current improvements."—The Bookseller (London.)

By order of the Board,

ROBERT GARRETT, Secretary.

Australian Matual Provident Society.

Established January 1st, 1849, and Incorporated by Act of Parliament of NEW SOUTH WALES.

For the purpose of transacting every Branch of Life Assurance, Annuity, and Endowment Business.

At the Second Investigation into the Society's affairs completed during 1859, it was found that the transactions of the five years ending February 28th, 1859, had been so profitable as to produce A SURPLUS OF MORE THAN FIFTY PER CENT. ON THE LIABILITIES. MORE THAN ONE-THIRD OF THE ASSETS WAS PROFIT, ACTUALLY REALISED AND INVESTED for the exclusive benefit of the Members of the Society and their surviving friends.

A LIFE ASSURANCE POLICY effected in the middle of 1849, by a person then aged 40 years, for £500, NOW AMOUNTS TO £692 13s. The Bonus of £110 19s. 5d., allotted to it last February, is now worth £51 7s. 3d., or about seventy per cent. on the Premiums paid during the past five years, which, if devoted to the reduction of all future premiums, would diminish them by nearly thirty per cent. For each year the Policy may endure till next Investigation in 1864, A FURTHER ADDITION OF £12 6. 7d. WILL BE MADE TO IT.

A DEFERRED ANNUITY POLICY effected in 1849, (the Annuity to commence in 1867,) is now increased from the original amount of £20 PER ANNUM TO £29 1s. 10d.

An Endowment of the original amount of £400 payable in 1870, is now increased to £503 17s. 8d.

From the Actuary's Report, the correctness of which has been certified by Professor Pell, it appears that the existing Assets have been so valued "as to render it highly probable that during the progress of the next for years, they will be productive of an increasing surplus."

TABLES OF RATES for all ordinary plans of Life Assurances, Annuities, and Endowments, may be obtained at any of the Society's offices, and the Rates in case of Survivorship Assurances, Assurances whether by Ascending or Descending Scales of Premiums, or by a limited number of Premiums &c. :-Present or other Annuities ;-or any other description of Endowment, may be ascertained on application to the Actuary.

GENERAL CONDITIONS with regard to voyaging, residence abroad,

&c., &c., are unusually favourable.

IMPORTANT PRIVILEGES.

The attention of Assurers is requested to the following important privileges granted by the Legislature of New South Wales to the Members of this Society, and to them only:—

All its Policies are protected after a certain term, to a gradually increasing extent against the operation of the Insolvent Laws. Policies effected by married women, are protected against the debts and control of their husbands. The families of Assurers of £100, or smaller sums, who die intestate, are saved the expense of obtaining letters of administration.

Sloper, Rev. G. H. Stanley; Messrs. F. M. Stokes, J. Waller; Rev. W. H. Walsh; Messrs. W. Wilkins, C. H. Woolcott,

This Society has been formed for the cultivation and practice of Vocal Music, and for the establishment of a School for instruction in part singing in Sydney. To this end the support of all persons competent to take part in Choral Music, is earnestly invited, in order that an organised body of singers may be formed in Sydney capable of producing, in their entirety, the great works of the great masters of Music.

The rates of subscription fixed are as follows:—
Members, who will have the privelege of admission themselves and two lady friends to six Concerts in the year, Two Guineas per Annum.
Subscribers, with single admission to six Concerts in the year, One Guinea per Annum. Associates, or singing Members, who, by virtue of their assistance in the Chorus, will be admitted free, and will have the advantage of a weekly practice in part singing, under a competent Chorus Master. The use of the School-room in Castlereagh-street, has been granted by the Rev. R. Allwood, for one evening in each week gratuitously.

This Society relies for its support on the acknowledged advantages which the cultivation of the Arts confers on a people; and also, on the broad and liberal basis on which it is founded, the only qualification for membership being the possession of a respectable character.

Members', Subscribers', and Associates' names, will be received by the Treasurer, Mr. L. W. HURFORD, 19, Castlereagh-street; or by the Secretary, Mr. J. DYER, No. 25, Macleay-street, Wooloomooloo, FIRE INSURANCE.

SYDNEY INSURANCE COMPANY.

Office—Corner of Pitt and Hunter Streets, Sydney.

INCORPORATED BY ACT OF COUNCIL, 18th VICT., 1855.

SUBSCRIBED CAPITAL

£250,000.

Directors :

S. D. GORDON, Esq., M.L.A., Chairman.
RICHARD JONES, Esq., M.L.A., Deputy-Chairman.
T. C. BREILLAT, Esq.,
JOHN FAIRFAX, Esq.
THOMAS HOLT, Esq.

Zurvepor: JAMES HUME, Esq.,

Secretary: Mr. JOSEPH DYER.

Within the last four years this Company has paid for losses by fire the sum of £15,508 5s. 0d.

The Directors would point out the public advantages derived from the establishment of this truly Colonial Institution. The rates of premium on Fire Insurance have been reduced 75 per cent, below the rates charged by the English Companies some few years back—and they are now as low as those charged by the English companies established here. The liability of a large body of wealthy shareholders is unlimited, so that a security equal to the largest subscribed capital of the English companies is assured, with the great advantage of the security being in the Colony, and lastly, the profits of the Company are retained in the Colony, instead of being transmitted to England.

BUILDINGS—metal or slated roof, stone or brick, from 2s. 3d. to 6s. 6d. per cent.

BUILDINGS—shingled ditto ditto ditto, from 3s. 9d. to 10s. 6d. per cent.

WOODEN BUILDINGS—metal or slated roof, 8s. and upwards. Shingled, special.

Agents are appointed in every considerable town in the Colony. N.B.—There is no exemption made in the above company from payment of losses occurring through bush fires, country properties being issued against such casualties.

KEATING'S COUGH LOZENGES.

FOR HALF A CENTURY this well known remedy for Palmonary disorders has successfully stood the test of public approval, and their usefulness has been extended to every clime and country of the civilized world. They may be found alike on the Gold-fields of Australia, the back-woods of America, in every important place in the East or West Indies, and in the palace of Pekin. During this long period they have withstood the pretensions of numerous inferior rivals, and are now the acknowledged antidote for Coughs, Colds, Asthma, &c.

Prepared and sold in Boxes and Tins of various sizes, by Thomas Keating, Chemist, &c., 79, St. Paul's Church-yard, London. Retail by all Druggists and Patent Medicine Vendors in the World.

N.B.—To prevent spurious imitations, please to observe that the words "KEATING'S COUGH LOZENGES" are engraven on the Government Stamp of each Box, without which none are genuine.

Important Testimonial to the Efficacy of Keating's Cough Lozenges in relieving Pulmonary Affections.

Dawlish, January 14, 1858.

SIR—The very excellent properties of your Lozenges induce me to trouble you with another Testimonial on their behalf. All I can say is, that I have been more or less Consumptive for upwards of three years, and have tried a great number of Lozenges to abate the Cough, but from none have I found such relief as from yours—even one of them will check the most violent attack. They are invaluable, and I strongly recommend them to persons suffering from a Cough or Cold on the Chest. Pray make any use of this you please, if worth your while.

I am, Sir, your obedient Servant,

To Mr. KEATING.
